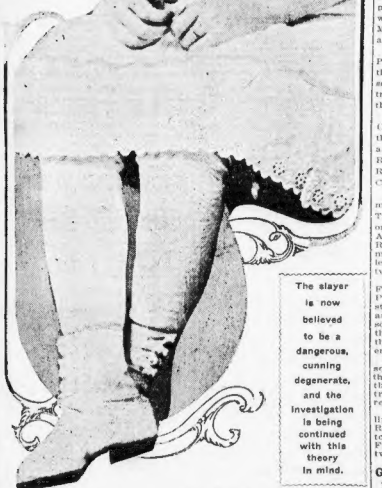
3 MEN STONED IN CURLEY'S WARD

HOLYOKE PARENTS DEMAND CAPTURE OF GIRL'S SLAYER

Lillian Begley, the little five-year-old girl mysteriously killed in Holyoke. A vigorous investigation has failed to reveal a single clew, police officials admit. Six men who were taken into custody and closely questioned were released, all of them establishing satisfactory alibis. Parents in the neighborhood of the murder are alarmed, fearing for the safety of their children, and demand that the culprit be captured.



The slayer is now believed to be a dangerous, cunning degenerate, and the investigation is being continued with this theory in mind.

HOLYOKE, Sept. 21.—Public demand increased today for the capture of the murderer of five-year-old Lillian Begley, whose mutilated body was found in the cellar of the very block where she lived with her widowed mother at No. 97 Maple street.

The child, an unusually winsome one, had been allowed to go out to buy candy Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. When she did not return search was made. At 11 o'clock Patrolman Morgan found the pitiful

Teutons Closing In on Russian Army

10,000 STRIKE IN THREE CITIES

PETROGRAD RAILWAY IS CUT

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's German army is now within seventeen miles of the great Russian city of Dvinsk (Dunaberg), which is one of the chief gates guarding Petrograd on the southwestern side.

German troops are now moving eastward toward Minsk, to cut off the Russian Vilna army from its only means of escape.

The General Staff reported today that the right wing of General von Eichorn's forces had reached the region east of Lida and northeast of Novogrudok. These troops have apparently cut the Lida-strograd railway and are headed for the Vilna-Minsk line, over which the Russians are retreating from Vilna.

The official report also states that Prince Leopold of Bavaria has crossed the Moltschad at Dworzec and to the south of that point. The Bavarian troops are thus moving forward with those of General von Eichorn.

Dvinsk, which lies on the Dvina (Duna) River, in one of the important thresholds through which German armies can pour into the interior of Russia. It is heavily fortified and a big Russian army has been massed there by Czar Nicholas.

It is situated where the Duna River makes a sharp curve toward the west. To the southwest lies the "Lake region," on the western fringe of which is Novo Alexandrovsk, from which point the Russians have retreated beneath the tremendous blows of Von Hindeburg's legions. Novo Alexandrovsk is less than twenty miles from Dvinsk.

Slowly but surely the army groups of Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Prince Leopold are forging a band of steel around the Russian armies east and southeast of Vilna, while further south the Russians who retreated from the Pinsk region are being pursued by the forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen.

A great artillery duel is in progress south of the Pripet marshes, and in the region of Dubno and east of Lutsk, the district known as the Volhynian triangle, Russian attacks are being repulsed.

On the extreme north end of the line, in the sector south of Riga, the Russians have made a strong effort to turn the German flank, but failed. Fighting is in progress around Ekau, twenty-two miles south of Riga.

GERMAN SIEGE GUNS NOW BATTERING DVINSK, PETROGRAD REPORTS

By International News Service.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 21.—German siege guns are now battering the fortifications of Dvinsk, the great Russian fortress on the Dvina River. After desperate resistance by the Russians west of the Dvina the troops of Field Marshal von Hindenburg have succeeded in bringing up their 42-centimetre cannon. A terrific bombardment is now in progress.

German aeroplanes are flying over Dvinsk, dropping bombs upon the Russian batteries and directing the fire of the Teuton guns.

FAKE FARO GAME IS CHARGE

Arthur J. Crowninshield and his brother, Alebrt H. Crowninshield, both of No. 250 Newbury street, Back Bay, with office in a oCngress street building, were arrested today on charges of attempted larceny of $3,000 from Herbert Smith of Winchester on September 15 and of assault and battery on George B. Ober of No. 331 Huntingtonavenu e on September 19.

The police allege that the attempted larceny of $3,000 from Smith was by means of a faro game played with cards marked with the names of popular listed stocks, instead of being like ordinary cards.

The arrests today are the first direct result of an investigation of two weeks by police inspectors and private detectives of complaints that young alleged brokers from an office in Congress street had revived the "Big Bill" Kelliher confidence game.

ONE $25,000 VICTIM.

A shoe manufacturer is said to have been a recent victim of the new version oft he faro game which is being operated, to the extent of $25,000. Other victims include New York and Boston Stock Exchange clerks, and employes of banking houses of both cities.

The actual fleecing was done at a club referred to by the ring as the "Bankers' and Brokers' Club," as New York, till it was discovered by one "sucker" that no such club appeared in the New York directory. Since then victims have been taken, it is alleged, to the "Manhattan Social Club," at New York, the change being evidently due to the fact that there are a number of exclusive clubs listed in the New York directory under "Manhattan," with which the name used by the bunco men might be confused.

The game has been operated under the guise of a brokerage business now being conducted on Congress street. Advertisements have offered 5 per cent. first mortgage gold bonds in exchange for Boston & Maine, New Haven and General Electric stocks, and answers to these advertisements have been made the means of bringing well-to-do business men to the office of the firm.

Several "coppers" have also been engaged in bringing in the "suckers," receiving their payment on a commission basis.

Once introduced, the "system" has been to inform the intended victims, confidentially, of a certain well-to-do New York club, which has been "framed" for the purposes of the bunco men and is equipped with furniture to the value of $15,000, has flunkies galore in gold braid and full regalia, admits none who are not in formal dress, and carries the air of exclusiveness necessary to the success of the game.

UNLOADING SECURITIES.

So far as can be ascertained the real factual dealings in stocks which have been carried through by this "brokerage" house, have been offers to exchange, on almost any basis whatsoever, bonds, whose market value has become negligible through failure to pay interest for several years, for Boston & Maine, New Haven and General Electric stocks.

Russian Crisis Over 'Exile' of Duke Nicholas

By International News Service.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 21.—Letters received from Petrograd report that a critical situation has developed in the Russian capital as well as in other large cities of the empire owing to strikes and demands for the recall of Grand Duke Nicholas from his virtual exile in the Caucasus.

One letter says that last Friday the workmen on an ammunition plant at Petrograd refused to obey orders from the troops to return to work and were fired upon, a score being killed and injured.

Recent conduct of the military establishment is said to have placed several Russian armies in a different position for which the Czar is blamed by his people. Though they received with enthusiasm the announcement that he would take command of all the Russian forces they expected Grand Duke Nicholas to retain his post as actual field leader.

One report has it that a deputation of officers who warned the new general staff of threatened revolt by their men was degraded.

New Jaws from Ribs Is Feat of Dr. Blake

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Miss Ethel B. Davis, head nurse of Bryan Mawr Hospital, Philadelphia, who has been with the American Hospital in Paris, and arrived here on the Orduna, said that the facial surgery now being practiced by Dr. Blake and his assistants was the most remarkable in history.

"Soldiers come into the hospital with the lower part of their faces shot away," she said. "A part of one of their ribs is taken and a new jaw fashioned out of it. A few weeks later they leave with nothing to show but a slight scar on the face."

British Steamer Is Beached After Crash

MUNITIONS WALKOUT SPREADS

Machinists in three New England cities are on strike in the midst of the rush of profitable war orders. A round ten thousand are out.

Four thousand or the 5,500 machinists employed by the Browne & Sharpe Company are out in Providence, with the police on guard.

The 5,000 employes of the United States Cartridge Company's plant in Lowell are out, a strike there developing a lockout.

A machinists' strike in Worcester has called 800 men from the Reed & Prentice double factories, with prospect of more from other concerns.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 21.—Strikers estimated at 2,500 gathered at Brown & Sharpe's machine shops today, where 4,000 men are on strike, for the purpose of drawing their pay.

On account of the gathering together of so large a number of strikers at one time the police feared trouble and every available police officer was held in readiness.

The union claims 4,000 men are on strike. The company admits that 3,000 of its 5,500 men have walked out. This is probably the largest strike in the history of the city. Union officials claim by tomorrow it will be even larger as they may attempt to tie up every machine shop in this vicinity.

SAY PLANT IS STRIPPED.

O. M. Preble, international president of the machinists' union, said today: "After a strike of one day I claim 99 per cent. of the men at Brown & Sharpe's are out. The plant is naked. It is bare of workmen. I have counselled the men to maintain strict order."

To avoid clashes with the police the men, who had been previously refused a permit to parade by the police, did not attempt to march in a body for their pay. Instead they left strike headquarters at No. 95 Weybosset street, where a meeting of the newly formed strike committee was called this morning. A group at a time. An enormous crowd gathered expecting trouble.

The general strike committee is

Man Is Scared to Death in Fight with Swordfish

Captain Edward Stanley, of the fishing schooner Stranger, which arrived in port today, reported that Albert Murphy, one of his crew, was frightened to death in an encounter with a swordfish, on Sept. 11.

The captain said Murphy was sent out to secure the fish after it was harpooned. In the tussle that followed the swordfish ran his sword through the dory, and Murphy was observed to throw up his hands and pitch overboard. His body was promptly recovered and taken into Canso, N. S., where an autopsy was held.

The doctors declared there were no injuries on the body, and that Murphy probably died of fright when the fish attacked him.

Murphy was new as a fisherman, and lived in Roxbury, where he had a wife and two children. He was 37 years old.

To Sell Steamer Eastland at Auction

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The steamer Eastland, which overturned in the Chicago River, July 24, and carried nearly 1,000 men, women and children to death, will be sold at auction to the highest bidder on December 20. Bids will be opened in accordance with an order of Federal Judge Landis in the office of the United States marshal.

CONFUSION OVER NEW PRIMARY BALLOTS

The State-wide primary election today, with a heavy vote polled in spite of the rain, was marked by these features:

A candidate and two friends were stoned in Ward 17, and appealed to the police for protection.

Confusion was caused everywhere by the size of the new ballots; the ballot boxes overflowed, and a hurried meeting of the Election Commissioners was necessary to deal with the situation.

An unexpected and vigorous campaign to defeat Senator James P. Timilty, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, was launched in Ward 18.

Michael J. Flynn asked police protection for himself and his friends against the Lomasneyites in Ward 8.

SOLAN STONED.

John T. Nolan, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate in the Fourth District, was driving from Ward 12 to Ward 17 with two friends—pursued, he said, by an automobile full of young men who wanted to take from him circulars he was distributing in his own favor—when on Magazine street a rambot of young men began to throw stones at him.

James Standigle and Jeremiah Carty, who were in the carriage with him, were hit by the stones. They appealed to the police for protection.

The size of the new ballots caused

Queen Wilhelmina in Auto Collision

By International News Service.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 21.—Queen Wilhelmina had a narrow escape from serious injury and perhaps death today when her motor car collided with another. The Queen, accompanied by the princess, was driving from Parliament building when the automobile collided with another car, containing members of the royal family. Aside from being shaken up the Queen was not injured. Two persons in the other car were hurt.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

The New Angel

Mr. Sidney Winslow of the United Shoe Machinery Company Now Fosters Senator Weeks' Candidacy for President and the Present Standpat Republican Organization

THE AMERICAN agrees with the public statement of Mr. Matthew Hale concerning the proper attitude of the Progressives in the coming election. Mr. Hale was one of the most self-sacrificing of the Progressive leaders. He was a personal friend of Theodore Roosevelt. He gave time and money to the Progressive cause. He is a sincere believer in the Progressive principles, and like all such men he sees through the hollowness of the present standpat Republican organization, seeking again the control of the State after five years of enforced retirement, but without acknowledging an error or even promising a reform.

We quote part of Mr. Hale's open letter:

"I believe that the Progressives are standing and will stand by their guns in the same manner as Theodore Roosevelt has publicly announced that he will do. They will not be deceived by the platitudes of either of the old parties. The same old Republican machine that was in the saddle in 1912 is in the saddle today; a study of what the Republican candidates are saying today against each other is proof of this. The Democrats are trying to use an international crisis to conceal from the electorate its errors.

"The Progressives have fought a long fight in the face of tremendous odds. Men who are made of the stuff to do this sort of thing do not turn easily.

"The Progressives have a good candidate for Governor, who stands for every principle of the Progressive party. Mr. Clark is fighting for those who believe in the principles of the Progressive party, win or lose. It is the duty of every man who believes in the Progressive principles to stand by Mr. Clark in the coming election and then buckle his armor just a little tighter for the great fight in 1916."

It must be obvious that the Progressives have a greater opportunity than either of the other two political parties to confer a widespread national benefit upon the country.

That opportunity lies in the possibility of teaching the Republican party a lesson which they seem to be very slow to learn. That lesson is the fact that the Republican party cannot return to power in this country while it remains standpat, unregenerate and reactionary.

The Republican organization seems bound to cultivate "an angel" among the reactionary interests. It has so long leaned upon some special interest with an axe to grind that it is afraid to take a step except under such protection. Just now Mr. Sidney Winslow of the United Shoe Machinery Company is assuming a patronizing care of the standpat Republican faction. Mr. Winslow's ambitions are very large. They even include syndicating the United States of America. The publicity campaign which has been waged for Mr. Winslow's protege, Senator John W. Weeks, for President, has awakened the interest of a good many curious people throughout the country. With Senator Weeks in the President's chair and Mr. Winslow in the place of Mark Hanna, we might expect to see once more the wild orgies of reaction which disgraced this country and threatened its very foundations between the years 1896 and 1901, just before Roosevelt became President.

A defeat of the Republican party, under such leadership and control, by the Progressives, would be a lesson of nation-wide importance.

Letters from American Readers

EACH IN TURN

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—I agree with Mr. George W. O'Reilly's article so far as he refers to England's contraband on cotton and her methods employed in the destruction of commerce. All Americans must agree that she is performing a repetition of her "unquestioned interference" in the commerce of this country and that she is "robbing us of our neutral rights."

But, to his reference to President Wilson, "it only he loved his mother country less and his adopted country more," I, as a non-partisan American citizen, must take exception.

What mother country has President Wilson? Where is there today a better liberty-loving, high-minded and impartial American than the present occupant of the White House? Why disturb the man who has won his enemies' hearts since he has held the greatest office in the world?

Let him take Germany, which he is doing, and settle our grievances in an honorable, fairminded and American-like manner without any comment during the process except that of encouragement and praise. There will be plenty of time for adverse criticism.

He will come to England and remove her "strong arm." Having taken them one at a time, then he may well say to Germany and England alike: "There are our rights, defy them if you dare." WILFRED V. BARRETT.

Revere.

THANKS AND APPLAUSE.

Editor Boston American:

Dear Sir—Having read the editorial on "England Has Stopped Our Shipment of Cotton; Should We Stop Our Shipment of Arms?" I feel it my duty as a reader of the AMERICAN to give my share of thanks and appreciation to Mr. O'Reilly and the Boston AMERICAN for publishing such a true and accurate editorial. I am glad to see that there is one paper in Boston which is not afraid to publish the truth about this war, and let its readers know the real facts, which have been so cutely kept from us through the pro-English press of this country.

I admire Mr. O'Reilly's last few lines in the editorial, "Let us say to Germany and England alike, 'These are our rights, defy them if you dare.'"

I sincerely hope you will continue to publish such enlightening editorials quite often in the future.

FRED J. GORMAN.

Wellesley Hills.

HEARTY APPROVAL.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—The article on your editorial page, signed by Mr. O'Reilly has moved me deeply, and I cannot refrain from expressing my hearty approval of it. England is and always has been our worst enemy, and were we obliged to have a master, would much prefer the German. By all means put an embargo on arms, etc., that may bring England to her senses, for the time being. It is by far our strongest weapon and should be made use of. Under present management, however, there is but little hope of anything being done.

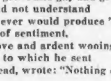
More Truth Than Poetry

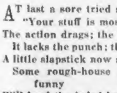
By James J. Montague

WHEN Shakespeare tried his 'prentice hand
On dramas grave and gay and grewsome,
He simply could not understand
Why no one ever would produce 'em.
He put in lots of sentiment,
And torrid love and ardent wooing,
But every firm to which he sent
A 'script to read, wrote: "Nothing doing!"

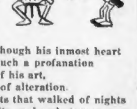
AT last a sore tried showman said:
"Your stuff is mostly idle chatter.
The action drags; the interest's dead,
It lacks the punch; that's what's the matter.
A little slapstick now and then,
Some rough-house stuff that's good and funny
Will land the jaded business men;
Loose talk won't ever get their money."



SO Shakespeare, though his inmost heart
Grew sick at such a profanation
Of all the canons of his art,
Took up the job of alteration.
He worked in ghosts that walked of nights
To make the guilty reel and stagger;
He got up suicides and fights
With spear and sword and dirk and dagger.



AND lo! the first one was a hit;
Six big producers fought to buy it,
And all the papers said, to wit:
"YOUNG AUTHOR'S THRILLER PROVES A RIOT!"
By dreams of starving for his art
Were Shakespeare's nights no longer haunted,
Remembering how he got his start,
HE GAVE THE PUBLIC WHAT IT WANTED!



Harriet Ford Tells How a Girl May Succeed as a Dramatist

By Harriet Ford

Miss Ford, as a dramatist, has had three consecutive successes. "The Argyle Case," "The Dummy" and "Polygamy."

Things That Will Help

IT is well to remember that the public of the dramatist is much more emotional than the public of the novelist, and that the thing that gets an instant emotional response from an audience must be sincere.

Study people's emotions. Whatever is dominant in human beings they demand to see in the plays presented to them. Love between man and woman must be there, and it must be idealized and sacrifices must be made for it.

Literary dialogue is obviously false and will kill your play. The lines must be true to character and situation, not your own poetic flights. Plays are judged as literature by a different standard from novels. They are literature if they unfold an ingenious story, revealed by strongly individualized, true types of character, and are presented by action and lines that from the rise of the curtain on the first act are cumulative in interest to the fall of the curtain on the last act.

Absurdities of speech or manner, truthfully portrayed, amuse because the audience recognizes them as real. But they should not impede the action.

The unexpected always grips the interest. Formerly it was considered a cast-iron dramatic rule that the audience must be taken into your confidence, and resented being fooled, but many recent plays have been constructed so as to afford a complete surprise in the last act, and the success of the experiment goes to show that the public likes the device.

Avoid a story that involves in hopeless tragedy an unoffending, sympathetic character. People like to see their dreams and ideals realized on the stage.

Dumas' rule for a successful play, the first act clear, the last short, and the whole interesting, is still true. Unless the beginner in the first act makes the motives and the characters in his play very distinctly drawn his opportunity is gone.

Finally, school yourself to criticism. It often seems unjust, but it would be a pity if it were eliminated. You will hear comments on your work that you consider astounding, but listen with patience to everything and sift the wheat from the chaff.

You will get many worth-while suggestions from such unfriendly critics and captious spectators.

Matrimony Full of Bills; Be Sure to Have the Price

Nothing So Quickly Wakes a Couple from Love's Dream as the Sound of the Collector Hammering at the Door

By Dorothy Dix

THIS is the third commandment of matrimony:

Thou shalt not marry until thou hast the price thereof in thy pocket, for, lo, matrimony is full of bills.

The two greatest promoters of divorce are the individual who first held out the alluring theory that "love is enough," and his twin brother in iniquity who laid down the proposition that two can live as cheaply as one.

Millions of guileless young couples have married on this platform only to find that it collapsed under the weight of actual experience. They fondly believed that love was enough, and that, if you were united to the idol of your soul, in some miraculous way Cupid would feed you as the ravens did the prophets of old, and that, anyway, you would exist in some sort of a seventh heaven where you would be indifferent to such sordid things as food, and clothes, and shelter.

Awake to Revelations

But, to their amazement, they found out that after marriage they were just as hungry three times a day as they were before; that they took just the same interest in clothes, and found plumbing and a good bathtub and elevator service just as necessary to their bodily comfort as in their bachelor days.

Moreover, family life isn't a sum in simple addition. It's generally compound addition, and one and one in matrimony don't make two, but an indefinite number whose cost no man can guess at beforehand.

These sordid and disillusioning considerations are a blight to romance, but they are certainties that have to be faced. Matrimony has to be properly financed in order to be a success, for nothing so soon and so effectually wakes a man and woman up from love's young dream as the sound of the bill collector hammering on the door.

Love Lyrics vs. $5 Bill

It is a sad truth, but it is the truth, nevertheless, that our bodies have to be comfortable before we have any spiritual uplift. No man whose stomach is crying out for good food ever stops to think of the state of his heart. No woman who is worn out with cooking, and washing, and sewing, and nursing fretful babies, has got a romantic thrill left in her system. She would rather have a five-dollar bill to hire a maid with than a ton of deathless love lyrics addressed to her eyes.

Nine-tenths of domestic unhappiness has its root in the money question. A young couple marry before they have the price of a wedding ring, and the expenses it entails. The man finds that he has sold himself into bondage to grocers and butchers and dry goods merchants and doctors.

Work as hard as he may, he can never satisfy the unending calls upon his pay envelope. He has no chance to get ahead, no possibility of enjoying himself, or doing anything but the daily task to which he is driven by his family necessities.

No wonder he gets discouraged, disgruntled, grouchy and that he comes to see in his wife nothing but the millstone about his neck.

Becomes Disillusioned

The woman finds that marriage has turned her into a domestic slave whose whole life is passed in the endless round of cooking and sewing, and scrubbing and washing and tending sickly babies, and practicing pinching economies. She becomes disillusioned about her husband, disillusioned even about herself, because she knows that hard work and privations, and the lack of pretty clothes and luxuries are fatal to a woman's looks and charms.

Rightly or wrongly, we have formed habits on whose gratification depends our happiness. The man accustomed to good food starves on coarse food; the man accustomed to daily baths is uncomfortable without them. The man who has lived in a pleasant neighborhood, among cultivated people, is miserable in a squalid tenement with uneducated, unrefined, unwashed humanity about him. The woman daintily reared, and accustomed to all the elegancies of society, is wretched if deprived of the softness of life.

Nest Egg, Not Empty Purse

The moral of all of this is that no man should marry until he is able to properly finance matrimony, and has enough money on hand to be reasonably sure of being able to live approximately in the same way in which he has been accustomed to live. Above all, he should not marry until he has money enough to be sure that he will not be hounded by the specters of debt that eats the very heart out of man and paralyzes his energy and ambition.

No man should set up a yacht, an automobile, or a wife—they all cost about the same—until he has the price. Therefore bear in mind the third commandment of matrimony, which is: Thou shalt not marry until thou hast the price thereof, for, lo, matrimony is full of bills.

Holiday

By Ann Lisle

COME, my love, the world today
Sweeter far is than our dream!
Let us share a holiday
With the lazy, sun-kist stream;
Let us lie upon her edges,
Wade among the shallows,
Wearing crowns of dusky sedges
And of pale marshmallows.

Come, my love, make holiday—
All the earth is fairy green,
Let us leave our work, and play
Where the mantling shadow's seen.
Sunlight is a film of gold—
Free those golden stores—
Let us share Earth's wealth and hold
Holiday—outdoors!

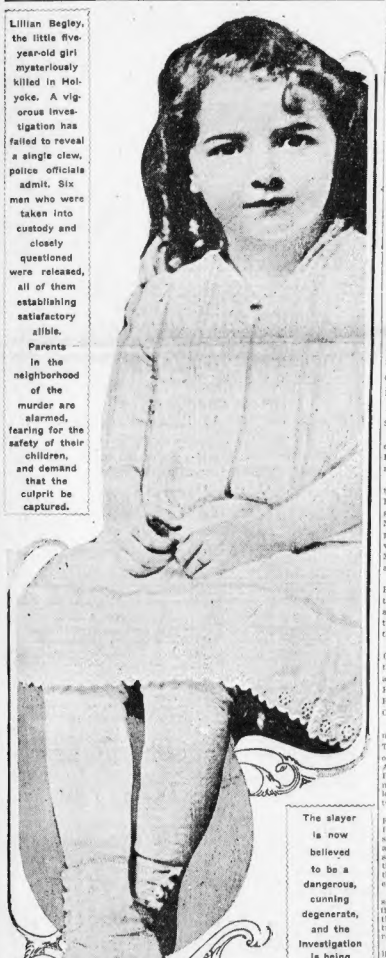
3 MEN STONED IN CURLEY'S WARD

HOLYOKE PARENTS DEMAND CAPTURE OF GIRL'S SLAYER

Lillian Begley, the little five-year-old girl mysteriously killed in Holyoke. A vigorous investigation has failed to reveal a single clew, police officials admit. Six men who were taken into custody and closely questioned were released, all of them establishing satisfactory alibis. Parents in the neighborhood of the murder are alarmed, fearing for the safety of their children, and demand that the culprit be captured.



The slayer is now believed to be a dangerous, cunning degenerate, and the investigation is being continued with this theory in mind.

HOLYOKE, Sept. 21.—Public demand increased today for the capture of the murderer of five-year-old Lillian Begley, whose mutilated body was found in the cellar of the very block where she lived with her widowed mother at No. 87 Maple street.

The child, an unusually winsome one, had been allowed to go out to buy candy Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. When she did not return search was made. At 11 o'clock Patrolman Morgan found the pitiful

Teutons Closing In on Russian Army

10,000 STRIKE IN THREE CITIES

PETROGRAD RAILWAY IS CUT

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg's German army is now within seventeen miles of the great Russian city of Dvinsk (Dunaberg), which is one of the chief gates guarding Petrograd on the southwestern side.

German troops are now moving eastward toward Minsk, to cut off the Russian Vilna army from its only means of escape.

The General Staff reported today that the right wing of General von Eichorn's forces had reached the region east of Lida and northeast of Novogrudok. These troops have apparently cut the Lida-Petrograd railway and are headed for the Vilna-Minsk line, over which the Russians are retreating from Vilna.

The official report also states that Prince Leopold of Bavaria has crossed the Moltschad at Dworzec and to the south of that point. The Bavarian troops are thus moving forward with those of General von Eichorn.

Dvinsk, which lies on the Dvina (Duna) River, is one of the important thresholds through which German armies can pour into the interior of Russia. It is heavily fortified and a big Russian army has been massed there by Czar Nicholas.

It is situated where the Duna River makes a sharp curve toward the west. To the southwest lies the "Lake region," on the western fringe of which is Novo Alexandrovsk, from which point the Russians have retreated beneath the tremendous blows of Von Hindenburg's legions. Novo Alexandrovsk is less than twenty miles from Dvinsk.

Slowly but surely the army groups of Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Prince Leopold are forging a band of steel around the Russian armies east and southeast of Vilna, while further south the Russians who retreated from the Pinsk region are being pursued by the forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen.

A great artillery duel is in progress south of the Pripet marshes, and in the region of Dubno and east of Lutsk, the district known as the Volhynian triangle, Russian attacks are being repulsed.

On the extreme north end of the line, in the sector south of Riga, the Russians have made a strong effort to turn the German flank, but failed. Fighting is in progress around Ekau, twenty-two miles south of Riga.

GERMAN SIEGE GUNS NOW BATTERING DVINSK, PETROGRAD REPORTS

By International News Service.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 21.—German siege guns are now battering the fortifications of Dvinsk, the great Russian fortress on the Dvina River. After desperate resistance by the Russians west of the Dvina the troops of Field Marshal von Hindenburg have succeeded in bringing up their 42-centimeters cannon. A terrific bombardment is now in progress.

German aeroplanes are flying over Dvinsk, dropping bombs upon the Russian batteries and directing the fire of the Teuton guns.

FAKE FARO GAME IS CHARGE

Arthur J. Crowninshield and his brother, Alebrt H. Crowninshield, both of No. 250 Newbury street, Back Bay, with office in a oChrgese street building, were arrested today on charges of attempted larceny of $3,000 from Herbert Smith of Winchester on September 15 and of assault and battery on George B. Ober of No. 331 Huntingtonavenu e on September 19.

The police allege that the attempted larceny of $3,000 from Smith was by means of a fare game played with cards marked with the names of popular listed stocks, instead of being like ordinary cards.

The arrests today are the first direct result of an investigation of two weeks by police inspectors and private detectives of complaints that young alleged brokers from an office in Congress street had revived the "Big Bill" Kelliher confidence game.

ONE $25,000 VICTIM.

A shoe manufacturer is said to have been a recent victim of the new version oft he faro game which is being operated, to the extent of $25,000. Other victims include New York and Boston Stock Exchange clerks, and employes of banking houses of both cities.

The actual fleecing was done at a club refered to by the ring as the "Bankers' and Brokers' Club," at New York, till it was discovered by one "sucker" that no such club appeared in the New York directory. Since then victims have been taken, it is alleged, to the "Manhattan Social Club," at New York, the change being evidently due to the fact that there are a number of exclusive clubs listed in the New York directory under "Manhattan," with which the name used by the bunco men might be confused.

The game has been operated under the guise of a brokerage business now being conducted on Congress street. Advertisements have offered 5 per cent. first mortgage gold bonds in exchange for Boston & Maine, New Haven and General Electric stocks, and answers to these advertisements have been made the means of bringing well-to-do business men to the office of the firm.

Several "cappers" have also been engaged in bringing in the "suckers," receiving their payment on a commission basis.

Once introduced, the "system" has been to inform the intended victim, confidentially, of a certain well-to-do New York club, which has been "framed" for the, purposes of the bunco men and is equipped with furniture to the value of $15,000, has flunkies galore in gold braid and full regalia, admits none who are not in formal dress, and carries the air of exclusiveness necessary to the success of the game.

UNLOADING SECURITIES.

So far as can be ascertained the actual dealings in stocks, which have been carried through by this "brokerage" house, have been offers to exchange, on almost any basis whatsoever, bonds, whose market value has become negligible through failure to pay interest for several years, for Boston & Maine, New Haven and General Electric stocks.

Russian Crisis Over 'Exile' of Duke Nicholas

By International News Service.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 21.—Letters received from Petrograd report that a critical situation has developed in the Russian capital as well as in other large cities of the empire owing to strikes and demands for the recall of Grand Duke Nicholas from his virtual exile in the Caucasus.

One letter says that last Friday the workmen on an ammunition plant at Petrograd refused to obey orders from the troops to return to work and were fired upon, a score being killed and injured.

Recent conduct of the military establishment is said to have placed several Russian armies in a different position for which the Czar is blamed by his people. Though they received with enthusiasm the announcement that he would take command of all the Russian forces they expected Grand Duke Nicholas to retain his post as actual field leader.

One report has it that a deputation of officers who warned the new general staff of threatened revolt by their men was degraded.

New Jaws from Ribs Is Feat of Dr. Blake

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Miss Ethel B. Davis, head nurse of Bryan Mawr Hospital, Philadelphia, who has been with the American Hospital in Paris, and arrived here on the Orduna, said that the facial surgery now being practiced by Dr. Blake and his assistants was the most remarkable in history.

"Soldiers come into the hospital with the lower part of their faces shot away," she said. "A part of one of their ribs is taken and a new jaw fashioned out of it. A few weeks later they leave with nothing to show but a slight scar on the face."

British Steamer Is Beached After Crash

MUNITIONS WALKOUT SPREADS

Machinists in three New England cities are on strike in the midst of the rush of profitable war orders. A round ten thousand are out.

Four thousand or the 5,500 machinists employed by the Browne & Sharpe Company are out in Providence, with the police on guard.

The 5,000 employes of the United States Cartridge Company's plant in Lowell are out, a strike there developing a lockout.

A machinists' strike in Worcester has called 800 men from the Reed & Prentice double factories, with prospect of more from other concerns.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 21.—Strikers estimated at 2,500 gathered at Brown & Sharpe's machine shops today, where 4,000 men are on strike, for the purpose of drawing their pay.

On account of the gathering together of so large a number of strikers at one time the police feared trouble and every available police officer was held in readiness.

The union claims 4,000 men are on strike. The company admits that 2,500 of its 5,500 men have walked out. This is probably the largest strike in the history of the city. Union officials claim by tomorrow it will be even larger as they may attempt to tie up every machine shop in this vicinity.

SAY PLANT IS STRIPPED.

O. M. Preble, international president of the machinists' union, said today: "After a strike of one day I claim 99 per cent. of the men at Brown & Sharpe's are out. The plant is naked. It is bare of workmen. I have cancelled the men to maintain strict order."

To avoid clashes with the police the men, who had been previously refused a permit to parade by the police, did not attempt to march in a body for their pay. Instead they left strike headquarters at No. 95 Weybosset street, where a meeting of the newly formed strike committee was called this morning, a group at a time. An enormous crowd gathered expecting trouble.

The general strike committee is

Man Is Scared to Death in Fight with Swordfish

Captain Edward Stanley, of the fishing schooner Stranger, which arrived in port today, reported that Albert Murphy, one of his crew, was frightened to death, in an encounter with a swordfish, on Sept. 11.

The captain said Murphy was sent out to secure the fish after it was harpooned. In the tussle that followed the swordfish ran his sword through the dory, and Murphy was observed to throw up his hands and pitch overboard. His body was promptly recovered and taken into Canso, N. S., where an autopsy was held.

The doctors declared there were no injuries on the body, and that Murphy probably died of fright when the fish attacked him.

Murphy was new as a fisherman, and lived in Roxbury, where he had a wife and two children. He was 47 years old.

To Sell Steamer Eastland at Auction

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—The steamer Eastland, which overturned in the Chicago River, July 24, and carried nearly 1,000 men, women and children to death, will be sold at auction to the highest bidder on December 20. Bids will be opened in accordance with an order of Federal Judge Landis in the office of the United States marshal.

CONFUSION OVER NEW PRIMARY BALLOTS

The State-wide primary election today, with a heavy vote polled in spite of the rain, was marked by these features:

A candidate and two friends were stoned in Ward 17, and appealed to the police for protection.

Confusion was caused everywhere by the size of the new ballots; the ballot boxes overflowed, and a hurried meeting of the Election Commissioners was necessary to deal with the situation.

An unexpected and vigorous campaign to defeat Senator James P. Timilty, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, was launched in Ward 15.

Michael J. Flynn asked police protection for himself and his friends against the Lomasneyites in Ward 8.

NOLAN STONED.

John T. Nolan, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Senate in the Fourth District, was driving from Ward 12 to Ward 17 with two friends—pursued, he said, by an automobile full of young men who wanted to take from him circulars he was distributing in his own favor—when on Magazine street a number of young men began to throw stones at him.

James Standigle and Jeremiah Carty, who were in the carriage with him, were hit by the stones. They appealed to the police for protection.

The size of the new ballots caused

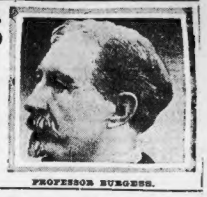
Queen Wilhelmina in Auto Collision

By International News Service.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 21.—Queen Wilhelmina had a narrow escape from serious injury and perhaps death today when her motor car collided with another. The Queen, accompanied by the princess, was driving from Parliament building when the automobile collided with another car, containing members of the royal family. Aside from being shaken up the Queen was not injured. Two persons in the other car were hurt.

LOAN MIGHT INVOLVE U.S. IN THE WAR, SAYS PROF. BURGESS



PROFESSOR BURGESS.

By John W. Burgess.

Formerly dean of the faculty of Political Science of Columbia University and first Roosevelt exchange professor to Germany.

Newport, R. I., September 21.

By Telegraph to Editor of the American.

I think the proposed loan would be only a beginning, not being enough for one month's expenditures of the allies; that it would make for a prolongation of war; that it would increase plutocratic power in this country; that it would derange our economic and monetary system, that it might ultimately involve our country in the wars and bankruptcy of Europe; and that the chief trouble with our export trade is the arbitrary British orders in council, prohibiting our lawful trade with all Europe, except Great Britain and her allies.

HEARST'S 'CALL TO CONSCIENCE' STIRS INSTANT ENTHUSIASM

The "Call to Conscience" against the proposed loan to the allies, issued by William Randolph Hearst, and published in the BOSTON AMERICAN, has met enthusiastic response. Some of the comments follow:

WILLIAM BAYARD HALE, noted author, and recently special envoy of President Wilson in Mexico:

The attempt to persuade the people of the United States that it is necessary for our own well being that we should lend England and her allies a thousand million dollars with which to whip Germany, is an affront alike to our intelligence and our self-respect. If the first billion dollars is not enough to do the job we shall be told that it is necessary for us to put up another, and then it really will be necessary. Already the appeal is less a little the appearance of blackmail—we are told everything will go to the devil unless we step into the breach. This loan once made, we shall indeed have a stake in the result of the war, which we shall have to protect. If we are so foolish as to make this advance, we shall have nothing to expect but a series of demands for further and still further loans, each designed to cover and extend the others and to involve us deeper and deeper in the general European bankruptcy which is bound to follow the war—a war the appalling proportions of which have scarcely begun to penetrate into our apprehension.

THOMAS N. MARBLE, president of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey:

I believe this country should maintain an attitude of strict neutrality in law and morals. If President Wilson was right upward of a year ago, when he said he forsade the exportation of firearms into Mexico because, as he said, the better practice of neutrality required it, then the present policy of permitting this to be done on the present wholesale scale must be wrong. If President Wilson was right last Fall in requesting American bankers not to act to make a foreign loan, then this present negotiation must be morally wrong to the extent that his precedents are to be used for the munitions of war.

I am strongly opposed to the proposed loan on moral grounds. I have never believed that neutral nations should supply nations engaged in war, either with money or munitions of war. I have hopes that the time will come when nations will refuse to assist one another in killing men.

REV. DR. S. EDWARD YOUNG, Bedford Presbyterian Church, Brooklyn:

First Hearst places the issue upon the highest possible plane, and while I am not quite brought over to his views, I am sure his statement will stand out for years to come among the supreme moral and religious appeals of this war era. The logic, the courage, the humanitarian spirit of it, are tremendously impressive, and will have profound and far-reaching results, probably reducing, if not preventing the loan.

THE REV. ALEXANDER LYONS, Eighth Avenue Temple, Brooklyn:

I am opposed to any subvention of any enterprise which signifies such wholesale destruction of life and human culture as war involves. I am sorry that Americans were from the very start in the contributory to the whole sorry business. If the overgrown bad boys of Europe cannot get along together, let them fight it out among themselves. If we Americans cannot stop it, let them have it out to a finish, then the rest of us will be undisturbed for a long time to come.

ABRAHAM CAHAN, Editor of the Jewish Forward:

I am opposed to the loan because directly or indirectly Russia will get a large share of the money. Hundreds of thousands of men and women have been thrown into jail because they are intelligent enough to demand representation in Parliament and free speech. Good American money should not go to the support of a despotic government, who cannot treat her own people humanely.

JOSEPH BADALECIA, president of the Federation of Oriental Jews of America, which controls over 300,000 Oriental Jews:

I approve of Mr. Hearst's sentiments against a war loan. Moreover, I have an idea that in spite of the many assurances that Russia would get no part of the loan we know that directly or indirectly she will be benefited. In that way Jews would contribute to the resources of the Russian government, who would use these resources to further exterminate the Jews and continue to oppress and harass her own people.

JOSEPH BARONDESS, member of the New York City Board of Education:

Any money given at this time to the fighting nations merely will prolong the war and thus aid in the destruction of lives. It is unfair, therefore, that Mr. Hearst should take a firm stand in the aid of civilization. He should become the leader now in a campaign to save this nation from becoming involved in the merciless slaughter of innocents. Mr. Hearst, by his campaign of publicity at the time of the massacre of the Jews in Kishineff, saved tens of thousands of lives. He won immortal fame by his work at that time. Now, when Russia is daily slaughtering so many Jews, he should not hesitate to again becoming the leader of humanity. And the leader of humanity at this time is the man who does most to stop this war. If it continues much longer it will mean the extermination of the Jewish people and of all other peoples.

MORRIS HILQUIT, noted Socialist leader:

The proposed loan is wrong, not only morally, but because of the American position in which it puts this country. The arguments of those advocating the loan, that the money may not be used for munitions, are hardly worthy of comment, so grossly misleading are they in every degree. Once the Wall Street interests lend this money, as brought out by Mr. Hearst, they will look upon the business side. That is, to see that the money so lent is safe. It will mean more loans and still more loans. All know this country is in bad enough condition without making it worse.

KUHN, LOEB & CO. AGAINST LOAN, IS REPORT

By FRANK CHARLTON,
Staff Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Three important developments within the past 24 hours may have an important effect in changing the status of the billion-dollar war loan which the allies are seeking in this country. They are:

1—Banks placing the loan may hold out for a commission in excess of the one-half of one per cent., which has been proposed.

2—Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the greatest banking firm in the United States with German connections, is reported to have refused to participate in the loan.

3—The allied governments will probably insist upon receiving their right to borrow secured in the United States for munitions of war instead of such necessities as food and clothing alone.

OPPOSITION NOT LESSENED.

Pro-German opposition to the placing of the loan has not lessened despite the evident progress which the Anglo-French commission has made in its negotiations.

This opposition is believed to have been largely responsible for a demand on the part of the banks placing the loan for a commission in excess of one-half of one per cent. per annum during five years.

Whether the report that Kuhn Loeb & Co. will have no part in the underwriting of the loan will militate against its ultimate success remains to be seen. The officers of Kuhn Loeb & Co. are Jacob H. Schiff, Mortimer L. Schiff, Felix M. Warburg, Otto H. Kahn and Jerome J. Hanauer. In addition to the bank holdings of these officers of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. the banking house is a vast holder of railroad securities.

If the allied governments put into effect their determination to use part of the loan for the purchase of arms, ammunition and other war supplies, J. P. Morgan & Co. will profit doubly.

BIG MORGAN PROFIT.

The house of Morgan will not only get the commission for placing the loan, but will make a big profit out of the supplies purchased here with the money, as the banking firm is the fiscal agent for the British government in the United States. It is now suggested that the first loan of the allied governments be taken in instalments, the aggregate to total $750,000,000. Instead of $1,000,000,000, and that the money be retained in American banks to be drawn against. Should the allies desire the money market steady and at the same time would ease the exchange rate.

The proposition to keep the money here is favorably received by practically all of the American bankers taking part in the negotiations, but no definite agreement has been reached yet on this point.

Another important suggestion is that the first instalment of the loan to secured by five-year 5 per cent. notes to net the borrowers 97½, and that these notes hold a conversion clause by which holders may convert them to long-term government bonds at a lower rate of interest later.

SEE OPPOSITION TO LOAN BECAUSE CZAR PERSECUTED JEWS

BERLIN (by wireless), Sept. 21.—Negotiations by the allies for a great loan in the United States are being closely watched by Germany. The press displays prominently all available information and comments at length on the various developments.

The Frankfurter Zeitung today expresses the belief that the firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Company will not participate in the Anglo-French loan.

"The senior partner, Jacob H. Schiff, as well as the other partners," says this newspaper, "has been aware of the fact that Russia is in the centre of reaction in the world and that Russia, who oppresses the Jews in a most barbarous way will benefit by the loan."

MEXICO SEEKS HUGE LOAN IN THE UNITED STATES

By LAURENCE TODD.
Staff Correspondent of the International News Staff.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—How to raise the vast sums of money that will be required to refinance Mexico and to pay the damage claims of the nations of the world is the question now under consideration by Carranza's representatives in this country.

With the return to this city today of Louis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of finance, it was reported that he had been in New York making the preliminary arrangements for the huge loan. There is authority for the belief that he has been assured of recognition in return, and an embargo placed against Carranza's enemies, all of the money needed will be forthcoming. But nothing can be done until the question of recognition has been passed on.

Thus far the amount needed has not been specified. The various estimates run from 500 millions to a billion dollars. The cash is needed for foreign claims to refund the national debt and terrehabilitate the national railways system.

MAJ. HIGGINSON DEFENDS LOAN TO ALLIES

Major Henry L. Higginson of Lee, Higginson & Co., commenting on the nature of the proposed Anglo-French loan, says:

"James J. Hill spoke the truth. Many people fail to appreciate the exact nature of these foreign loans. What is proposed is merely to defer payment on purchases made in this country. We do not want them to pay in gold—a large influx of gold would disarrange our whole banking and financial machine, which is built on the theory of credit.

"What these European countries are asking us to do is no more, and in many respects less, than they have done for us during our whole period of development.

"This country could never have amounted to what it is if the great banking nations of Europe had not believed in our promises to pay, even in our darkest moments. After our great internal war Dutch bankers and capitalists believed in us enough to buy our United States bonds at close to fifty cents on the dollar, and made huge profits.

"For many decades Europe has bought our promises to pay, both long and short, either in the shape of deferred payments or advances for new work. Our people for years, in moments of enthusiasm, have looked forward to the United States becoming the leading financial power of the world.

"Recently many have claimed that the American dollar was about to displace the British sovereign. At the first moment we are given our opportunity to play our role among the banking nations are we going to hesitate to accept some of the best promises to pay in the world.

"It is the biggest financial job this country has ever faced, but this country likes big jobs. I wonder whether we are going to rise to the occasion now or fall. If our people understand the situation I know we shall rise."

Philadelphia Riot at "Birth of Nation"

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—One hundred policemen with drawn clubs and revolvers charged a crowd of 1,000 negroes in front of the Forrest Theatre, where the motion play "The Birth of a Nation" is being presented, early today. Fully 5,000 white persons saw the onslaught.

Broad street for two blocks presented for a few moments a scene of the wildest disorder. The charge of the police followed the throwing of a brick by one of the negroes. The brick struck the door glass at the entrance of the Forrest Theatre and shattered it.

FEAR VIOLENCE AT POLLING PLACES

troubles everywhere. The ballots are 21 by 29 inches, except in Brookline, where they are 27 by 29 inches. As folded before being handed to the voters, they take up not much more room than the old ballots.

But the voting booths are only 18 inches wide, and the voters had difficulty refolding the ballots.

The result was that when dropped in the ballot boxes, the ballots opened out, and the ballot boxes, which are supposed to contain from one to two hundred ballots, became jammed when fifteen to twenty-five ballots had been pushed in.

The Election Commissioners, after a hurried conference, issued an authorization to the officials at the different polling places to open the ballot boxes when they became jammed, take out the ballots and place them in the old wide ballot boxes.

This was done under police supervision, and the ballots were then held in the locked and sealed old boxes till the time for counting should come.

EXTRA MEN NEEDED.

As a result of the great bulk and weight of the new ballots, eighteen extra men were needed to assist in preparing them.

In addition, when the cabs took the ballot boxes out early today, the bulk of the new ballots so filled up the interior of the vehicles that only one patrolman was able to sit inside with the ballots.

Previously, two patrolmen have been inside each cab. Today, one sat inside, and one on the seat with the driver.

The Election Commissioners said they were receiving reports of a heavy vote in the suburban districts especially.

One of the big surprises of the day was the activity that developed in Ward 18 in an attempt to defeat Timilty.

One man active against the Curley leader said he believed two thousand votes would swing against Timilty this year.

Timilty and his workers met the emergency by pressing into service a number of vehicles and hurrying to the polls every available voter.

Ward 23 was one of the few wards where a light vote was reported. Precincts 1, 2, 3 and 4, Democratic territory, were especially light.

In Ward 20, when Henry A. Coveney of No. 29 Bentham road, Dorchester, one of the thirteen candidates for the Democratic nomination for Representative, appeared at the polling place he learned that his name was not on the voting list. He was not allowed to vote, though he declared the omission of his name was a clerical error, as he had a notice from the Commissioners certifying that he was properly registered.

McCALL CONTEST.

Principal interest centred in the Cushing-McCall contest. McCall was a ten to nine favorite in what little betting was done. The McCall managers said returns from Ward 16 and 20, where they had expected Cushing to run strong, were giving McCall the advantage.

The Cushing managers claimed the heavy vote was favorable to the Cushing chances.

The nomination of David I. Walsh on the Democratic ticket was taken for granted. Foss, on the Republican side, was looked upon as an interesting side issue, with little chance of polling any considerable vote.

Wards 23 and 25 reported a heavy vote. In Ward 23, 4,000 votes were cast in the early morning hours.

"Stick to one column" was the message of warning to the voters. Politicians guessed that one-tenth of all the ballots would be thrown out because the voters jumped from one party column to another.

For the Republican nomination for Lieutenant-Governor, the fight was between Councillor Guy A. Ham of Milton and President of the Senate Calvin Coolidge.

FIGHT FOR AUDITOR.

Senator Bagley, State Auditor Cook and Samuel W. George fought for the Republican nomination for State Auditor.

In Boston, the shrievalty fight between Sheriff John Quinn and former Senator James F. Powers was the commanding factor.

Harold Williams, Jr., of Brookline, and Joseph Joyce Donahue of Medford were looked in combat for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General.

Middlesex County turned out a big vote in the sheriff fight between John R. Fairbairn and Adelbert B. Messer, both Republicans. Messer was fighting the county machine.

The Progressive vote was small, as Nelson B. Clark, the Gubernatorial candidate, occupied the only space in the Progressive column.

Clark and the Progressive State Committee declared that the entire primary ballot might be invalidated by an investigation they asked District-Attorney Pelletier to make of the Secretary of State's office.

ARREST NEAR IN KNOWLES KILLING

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 21.—High Sheriff Andrew J. Wilcox today began vigorous efforts to bring the slayer of Judge Willis S. Knowles to justice. The high sheriff, who has just assumed charge of the case, visited the scene of the crime with Deputies Colvin, McSorley and Newcomb, and then held a conference with Attorney-General Rice.

The sheriff said that immediate action, probably an arrest, would follow within a few hours.

Since Sheriff Wilcox came into the case, attention has again been turned to Harry Edwards of Scituate. Officials say they are not fully satisfied with Edwards' alibi.

Edwards is under arrest in Worcester on a breaking and entering charge. He is a farm hand and twenty-three. The fact that he had trouble with his wife, sixteen, and her mother on the Sunday before Labor Day, and his threat that he was going into the woods to hang himself, directed suspicion to him in connection with the killing of the judge, against whom Edwards was said to have displayed hostility at times.

ALIBI FOR EDWARDS.

Edwards told neighbors of his movements on Sunday night, September 5. He told the police he had spent the night walking through the streets of Providence. Some of the officials thought he might have slept in a barn in the neighborhood of Judge Knowles' home. They made capital of the fact that he showed temper on Sunday and talked of suicide. It was complained that the police had dropped Edwards too quickly on his say-so.

The testimony of several witnesses placed Edwards in Providence at the time the shooting occurred at 7:36 or 7:40 a. m. Joseph Billiglis, proprietor of the City Lunch, No. 190 Clemence street, said:

"I opened my place at 7 o'clock Labor Day. I noticed Harry Edwards waiting outside Joe Sawyer's, two doors above. He asked me when Joe would be in. I told him it might be a little late as it was a holiday. I opened up and Edwards came over when Edwards came in. I noticed it was 7:15 because he had been so anxious to find out when Sawyer would come. He said he wanted a shave.

KNEW EDWARDS WELL.

"I know Edwards well. He has been in my place several years. He didn't have anything to do with Judge Knowles' murder. How could he when he was outside my shop at 7 o'clock and kept around until 7:15 or after, when the judge was shot about 7:40, according to the papers.

Norton Wins War Cross in France

PARIS, Sept. 21.—The war cross has been awarded to Richard Norton of Boston, founder of the American Ambulance Corps, which has done such excellent work during the war. Richard Norton is the son of the late Professor Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard University.

Woman Needs All Her Strength

Keeping house is hard enough when well. The woman who has a bad back, aches, dizzy spells, dizzy headaches and kidney and bladder troubles, has a hard lot, for family cares and tasks never let up.

Probably it's all the result of kidney trouble and not the much feared "woman's disease." Strengthen the kidneys with Dean's Kidney Pills, used and recommended by women the world over. They are just as harmless as they are effective and may be used for children with weak kidneys, too.

East Boston Proof

Mrs. J. D. Van Wart, 25 Saratoga St., says: "I suffered terribly for many years from my kidneys. My back was always aching and often was so stiff and sore that I could hardly bend one way or the other. I had such pains through my back that I was in bed for four months. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and the trouble made me very nervous. Doan's Kidney Pills cured me."

MRS. CARMAN IN EXCLUSIVE ARTICLE WRITES OF MRS. MOHR'S CASE

Mrs. Mohr—poor woman!—will have the anxiety of her own fate always to torture her and more terrible still the two little ones at home waiting for her, not comprehending the tragedy of her plight—the thought of them always uppermost in her mother's mind.

If the three negroes held as accomplices were bent on robbery and committed murder by accident and became frightened and ran away without their loot it would be a terrible travesty on justice and the way the law works, to have their feeble story of murder for hire pinned on this poor creature who seems to have had nothing but sorrow in her life.

If her heart bled under the misery of her marital existence it must be drained of almost its last drop by now, because she has suffered, suffered, suffered. I know how she has suffered and I know how bitterly she is yet to suffer before the clouds part and drift away and the sunshine begins to seep into her life.

Florence Conklin Carman

HEART OF MRS. CARMAN GOES OUT TO ACCUSED MOHR WIDOW

By FLORENCE CARMAN.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 21.—Awaiting indictment and trial on the charge of murder, Mrs. Elizabeth Blair Mohr, of this city, a mother with two little children, should command my sympathy, and she does to so great an extent that if any written word of mine can possibly help her in her hour of terrible distress I shall most gladly give it.

Think of what it means to those two dependent little ones! That is my first thought. A woman cannot think of a trial of this sort without giving immediate thought to the helplessness of both mother and babes as the persecuting arm of the law swings above them, preparing to strike them and strike them just as hard as the statutes will permit.

SYMPATHY FOR ACCUSED.

If any woman lived to know the value of charity and the blessedness of it under bitter circumstances I think I have. The law and public opinion are sometimes quick to give judgment.

When judgment is soberly delayed and a chance given to the unfortunate person who is to face trial, how grateful that poor soul is. It is easy enough to lift and point a finger and say: "She is guilty!" But it is the part of humane people to give pause and say: "That woman is innocent, and the law so holds her until she has been proved a guilty woman."

Have you women, who have not known the ordeal of a trial at which life or liberty was staked, ever thought that something might happen in your lives suddenly and terribly and you would find yourselves in the position of being called upon to remember accurately the details of every commonplace event that day in order to establish your innocence?

TRIFLES RECALLED.

You are asked by your own counsel to recall trifling events of the day and after the moment when tragedy stalked into your life.

Representatives of the prosecuting arm of the law, lawyers and detectives hammer away at you, watching for the chance of a slip on your part when your whole mind is stunned or whirling.

The time of small domestic events is pinned down to hours and minutes and you find that you are expected to give a reason for every careless and thoughtless word you have uttered, words that may be distorted and given color against you.

Mrs. Mohr—poor woman!—will have to go through all of this, will have the anxiety of her own fate always to torture her, and, more terrible still, the two little ones at home waiting for her, not comprehending the tragedy of her plight, but thought of them always uppermost in the mother's mind.

At such a time—a time that twice confronted me during the trial of my husband—the first jury — Mrs. Mohr should have absolute quiet and peaceful surroundings, as regards as can be found for her.

The people who come in contact with her should be only those who thoroughly believe in her. And she must believe in them, must feel certain of their sincerity, must trust them with her whole heart and soul, intuitively.

They will help her to less: the mental and physical strain of a woman suddenly thrust from the privacy of homely duties to the front pages of newspapers, and that alone is terrible strain.

The curious crowds, the insistence of interviewers, the photographers, the static atmosphere of the court room and the terrible exercise in such a cell are all instruments of torture used on a body and soul already hurt to the quick.

While held a prisoner in Mineola jail I was so fortunate as to be put in charge of the warden's wife, a kindly little woman with the biggest, finest heart. My home was in Freeport, reached by trolley line across country.

It was not so easy for my husband and my own home people to keep in close touch with me, but the little wife of the warden was always there, cheerful, sweet, encouraging. Before me was the penalty of the death chair, to be preceded by the torture of the courtroom.

One morning she came to my cot. I was sound asleep. I learned afterward that she said after watching me for a while: "That woman was never guilty of that crime. No person having committed murder could have been sleeping so quietly and peacefully—lying there like a baby in slumber."

When she came in again and awakened me, she kissed me, feeling that this one her belief in my innocence was a veritable rock of strength.

FRIENDS GUIDED HER.

What a wonderful things is a true friend! She comes sometimes most unexpectedly and from a direction we least expect. This little woman with the great heart came to me, was guided to me in some strange way while I slept.

I knew that I was innocent of the most atrocious crime on earth, but the stress and strain of what I was going through wore me down, down, down, until very flesh came from me because of worry. I was losing ground and found in prison, although my husband stood by me like the man that he is and my lawyer would visit me day after day, using every resource that he could command.

Still it took this one cheering note to pull me up and cheer me, just as Mrs. Mohr now will have to find it and must surely find it, before she faces her accusers in the court room. In the simple faith of the wife of the warden of Mineola jail the very fact that I slept like a babe convinced her of my guiltlessness.

No evidence that could fit the rules of law practice could have meant more to me than her simple declaration of belief. It seemed to me, there in prison, that nothing else mattered.

This woman believed in me. She was a woman, a woman who had seen me lying in sleep, had studied my face there, and the face is the mirror of the mind, for the mind never sleeps. I was before her defenceless and not knowing that she was there.

Had I been guilty my face might have been distorted in a dumb cry or my features writhing. But this woman stood looking at me, silent there, and tip-toed out to say that I was an innocent woman, and she knew it, was what a good friend she was to me when she told others of her belief and her trust in me came back to my ears.

TORTURE BESET MRS. MOHR.

In the torture that has already beset this poor little Providence woman with her two children about her shirts and the law's agents hot after her to throw her into prison for life, if they can, she must be guarded well against false friends.

A tried soul will reach out in any direction, groping for a straw of hope wildly and with the hands of a drowning person for a piece of spindrift. Mrs. Mohr must carefully weigh her friends, testing them in the scales according to their true value.

Indeed my heart goes out to her now, as she is here by well-meaning instances, and as I plainly see the parallel to my own case. Against her are the confessions of three negro servants, who first confessed to killing Dr. Mohr and who then recanted their confessions.

Those three negroes are going to make a bitter fight for their liberty, and to save themselves from prison for life they will gladly send this little mother to the State penitentiary in their stead, separating her from her two little ones at home. It is a chance to raise them rightly in the world.

CASES QUITE SIMILAR.

It seems to me that the case will settle down to a struggle between lawyers to save the negro accused women, Hollis Brown and Spellman, on one hand, and Mrs. Mohr on the other. What a situation this is.

Think of it. Here is Hollis, the typical chauffeur of the dead man, signalling with his searchlights in a lonely road to the murderers lying in ambush.

At least that is the story printed in the result of the confessions of the negroes. Hollis was trusted by Dr. Mohr. Well and good. He comfortable position under a man who spent his money generously, he is said to have done this on a mere promise of money.

The two other negroes in the jail at Warren, a country town not far from Providence, who in their first confessions of guilt said that they had agreed to kill Dr. Mohr for a sum to be paid later by his wife, were negro servants of the dead man's home, who knew that Dr. Mohr carried large sums of money on his person on certain days. They knew just what roads he used in his almost daily travels from this city to his splendid estate at Newport.

If they were sent on robbery and committed murder by accident and became frightened and ran away without their loot it would be a terrible travesty on justice and the way the law works to have their feeble story of murder for hire pinned on this poor creature who seems to have had nothing but sorrow in her life.

If her heart bled under the misery of her marital existence it must be drained of almost its last drop by now, because she has suffered, suffered, suffered. I know how she has suffered and I know how bitterly she is yet to suffer before the clouds part and drift away and the sunshine begins to seep into her life.

STATE DISCOVERS NEW EVIDENCE IN THE MOHR KILLING

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 21.—New witnesses have been discovered in the Mohr murder mystery. Their testimony will be sensational, it is said. It will, it said, further affect the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Tiffany Blair Mohr, who is accused of plotting the conspiracy to kill her husband, Dr. C. Franklin Mohr. Discovery of the new evidence has increased the confidence of the State officials, who refuse to discuss its nature.

Delay in drafting the Providence County Grand Jury indictment, pending sifting of evidence in the Mohr case yesterday.

As a result quite a few candidates were rejected. The Grand Jurors who qualified to date are: James F. Hendrick, Peter Keohan and Richard F. Walsh of Providence, Sam Ditson and Ralph J. Greene of Pawtucket, William H. Bailey of Woonsocket, Thomas Bloomer of Central Falls, Charles H. Wilbur of Cranston, Frederick H. Black of Burrillville, Alfred Black of Johnston, Robert McNeary of Smithfield, George F. Howard of Scituate, and Josiah Tanner of Warren.

Summonses for five more candidates were issued ordering them to appear at 2:30 today for examination. Thirteen qualified and twelve were rejected yesterday.

Those who did not qualify were James E. Luther of Providence, over age; Charles B. Gould, over age; Francesco Dimitri, not enough equality in real estate; Vincenzo Venditelli and Joseph Lanni, 2 foreigners who had served on previous Grand Jurys, as had Lewis W. Kenyon; Thomas F. Kelly of Providence, over age; George W. Bowen of Pawtucket, previous service; Frank Taylor of East Providence, business; Joseph D. Wilbur of Lincoln, and William H. Simmons, deceased.

The most important witness in the Mohr case will not be presented to the Grand Jury before tomorrow afternoon. Miss Florence Ormsby, secretary to the doctor; John McAndrews, chauffeur, and Mrs. Mary Sullivan, Dr. Mohr's Newport villa; the hired help there, the servants from his city mansion, No. 582 Elmwood avenue, witnesses from the house across Columbus square, No. 1 Roosevelt avenue, where Mrs. Mohr and her two children have lived for the past eighteen months, since Dr. separated from the doctor, and some thirty others have been subpoenaed.

POLICE CALLED AT STRIKE IN WORCESTER

WORCESTER, Sept. 21.—The owners of the Reed-Prentice Company, whose 500 machinists are on strike from the Gold and Cambridge street plans, asked for police protection today, although only a few time clerks and foremen reported for work. The strikers had pickets out, but there was nothing for the policemen to act on.

Forty more time clerks and elevator boys joined the machinists' strike today. It was said that they were asked to do emergency work on the machines, which are jawwed with war orders.

Irganizer James H. Gilmour said today that, within the week, about 1,000 more machinists in other factories will strike unless the new union demands are granted. The union demands a time reduction from a ten to an eight-hour day and a wage increase of five cents an hour.

Gilmour added that over 2,000 of the 9,000 skilled machinists in the city were enrolled in the union and that organization of the rest was well under way.

The strikers and strike leaders declare that the manufacturers are making huge profits from war orders and can well afford the concessions sought.

The Whitcomb-Blaisdell Company, which has 300 hands, declined to give the strike committee an immediate answer today.

The committee will visit the Leland-Gifford plant this afternoon or tomorrow to make demands for 400 men.

Protests will be made to the Hubbe Manufacturing Company that its 200 men are handling orders for the Reed-Prentice "struck" shops.

Organizer Gilmour and Special Organizer Frank Morris addressed a Greendale this noon 3,000 employes of the North Company, Norton Grinding Company and Heald Machine Works.

MASS MEETING IS HELD BY THE LOWELL CARTRIDGE STRIKERS

LOWELL, Sept. 20.—The strikers of the United States Cartridge Company held a mass meeting today. The men voted to continue with the strike, and also voted to attend and send floral tributes to one of their number, who was drowned yesterday.

Approximately 5,000 employes are still out and the plant has ceased operations. This is the second week of the strike which commenced a week ago last Monday morning. The strikers are standing firm in their demands for an eight-hour day.

Today the company admitted to the works a number of workmen. It is understood that these men are for the purpose of installing new machinery and doing repair work while the plant is idle.

formed of one man from each of the 150 machinists on strike from the Brown & Sharpe plant. George E. Flanell was elected chairman. During the meeting it was announced that the company had yellow slips prepared for each man as he drew his pay.

This means that the recipient of a yellow slip has been discharged.

Union officials claim the strike will spread today and tomorrow until every machine shop in Providence and vicinity is tied up.

One-third of the city's police force is on duty at the plant. With them are a score of mounted officers. Every extra and reserve officer in the city is ready to respond to an emergency, and the city authorities fear trouble.

100 ARMED DETECTIVES.

Besides the regular city police force, the plant is being guarded by 100 armed private detectives, dressed in khaki uniforms similar to those worn by United States soldiers.

So far there has been no disorder.

Some of the customers of the plant which have large orders in the course of completion with Brown & Sharpe are the Remington Arms Company and the Westinghouse Company. Rumors have it that a large quantity of explosives are stored in one of the buildings. This is denied by company officials.

During the night the strikers placed pickets at every available spot. When the whistle blew at 7 o'clock this morning, workmen entering the plant were approached by the pickets, and several hundred joined the strikers.

The mass meeting in front of the State House was addressed by O. L. Frabble, international president of the machinists' union; Joseph Freshner, member of the executive board, and General Organisers E. L. Murphy and Harry J. Gill. Organizer Gill worked the crowd to enthusiasm when he claimed the company was able to give its private detectives an eight-hour day, but could not grant a similar concession to the men.

NO CLUE FOUND IN HOLYOKE KILLING

body, fearful evidence of the child's fate.

The block where Lillian lived is a large one and occupants are constantly traveling through and around it, especially on Sunday evenings.

The fact that the murderer was able to lure the girl into the cellar, do her to death and effect his escape within the police fear that a man of unusual cunning, even though of degenerate mind, slew the child.

Parents in the tenement neighborhood of Maple and adjoining streets are deeply alarmed for their girls and clamor for the murderer to be rounded up.

MOTHER A MILL WORKER.

Lillian was the daughter of Mrs. Bridget H. Begley, who works in a local mill. There is another child, two-year-old Mary. The mother, assisted by hard work to keep a home for herself and her two girls. The little family lived in the Dillon block, which has about 100 tenants, mostly mill hands.

Luxuries were naturally few in the Begley family, but on Sunday evening Lillian had a penny to spend for herself.

Her childish mind turned straight toward candy and, with mamma's permission, she skipped joyously out for the coveted sweets.

When the child was missed little fear was felt at first. But when the news of the discovery of the body in the cellar of the block was flashed through the neighborhood the first dread thought of all the elders was only too true.

Medical Examiner W. J. Teahan performed an autopsy yesterday and reported that Lillian had been enticed into the cellar and attacked.

It was thought that Lillian had been dead three hours when found. This would place her death within an hour of the time she left her home. It also appears that her murderer had had three hours in which to get away.

SIX SUSPECTS.

The police search developed six suspects. All these were taken to the station and rigidly questioned. But each one in succession established alibis. So all were released.

Today the police went at the case with renewed energy, with the realization that every hour deepened the public demand for results.

Enormous Army Thefts at Front Stir Britain

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—"Startling discrepancies in the accounts of the paymasters of the British army in the field have just been discovered and an investigation discloses the fact that sums of money totaling $10,000,000 are missing," said an American business man who returned from England on the Holland-American liner Rotterdam. This man, who will not permit the use of his name, had exceptional opportunities to see the inner workings of the British War Office.

"It is the belief of those who have investigated the matter," he continued, "that the sums will never be traced and steps are being taken by the Treasury Department to straighten out immediately the muddle of the financial arrangements at the front.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE DEAF

If you are losing your hearing—if you are troubled with buzzing and ringing in the ears—if you find that your nostrils are clogged—if you hawk and spit in the morning — if you have given up hopes of finding relief, just go to Riker-Jaynes, or any other drug store, and purchase one ounce of Fluid Catarrhozone. Mix this with one pint of warm water. Put two drops in the affected ear every night. Put one tablespoonful in a fourth of a glass of warm water and gargle throat and snuff up nose night and morning. Keep this up for a few weeks and test your hearing and you will be pleased to note the improvement. You will also, in addition, discover that your catarrh has disappeared and head noises gone.

How to Keep Face Young and Attractive

The way to ward off old age is not to fear it, not to allow one's self to be oppressed by the dread of advancing years. The only legitimate preventives and avoid trying experiments with preparations not indorsed by physicians. An entirely safe and very effective way to keep the complexion young-looking and beautiful is to apply ordinary mercolized wax at bedtime, using it like cold cream. The washing it off in the morning. This gradually absorbs the withered, faded cuticle, which is replaced by the most beautiful, pink-tinted underskin. One ounce of this way, to be had at any drug store, is enough to completely eradicate a worn-out complexion.

Crow's feet and other wrinkles, the first signs of advancing age, may be removed by a simple, harmless application made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint witch hazel. It is used as a face bath.—National Hygienic Review.—Advertisement.

How to Fight Tuberculosis

Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, Texas, says: "Since lime salts constitute three-fourths of all the mineral substance of the human body, the lime must be supplied in the foods or supplemented in mineral preparations, if vigorous nutrition ensure. With tuberculosis unchecked, no other remedy, however valuable, can accomplish results due largely to specialized lime lacking. This saddlines out multitudes throughout the civilized world."

Since lime is one of the ingredients of Eckman's Alterative, much of its success doubtless is due to its combination in such a way as to render it easily assimilable.

Eckman's Alterative has effected remarkable results in tuberculosis, which, in many instances, apparently has yielded to it, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Sold by all Riker Drug Stores and leading druggists.

JOHN D. JR., SEES MINERS AT LUDLOW

TRINIDAD, Col., Sept. 21.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., visited the scene of the Ludlow battle and the mining camps at Berwind and Tabasco, on his first day's inspection tour of the properties of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company.

After talking freely with the miners, he went into their homes, questioning their wives about working and living conditions and making suggestions for improvements.

He stopped at the miners' boarding house at Berwind for a meal. Tom Davis, superintendent of the mine, was sat at his right hand clad in blue overalls, and with coal dust ground into the wrinkles of his face, engaged in a conversation by Mr. Rockefeller.

After luncheon the party went to Tabasco, stopping on the way to visit the school where Mr. Rockefeller inspected some extensive improvement work.

FIRST DIRIGIBLE FOR U. S. NAVY COMING HERE

The first dirigible balloon for use in the United States Navy will be assembled in Boston, according to a dispatch from Washington today.

Then the machine will be taken apart, packed and shipped to the navy aeronautic station at Pensacola, Fla., where the trials are to take place. The navy is building a floating hangar and a hydrogen plant at Pensacola for the accommodation of its dirigibles.

The first of the navy's war balloons, which is a comparatively small one, being about 150 feet long, will embody the improvements which American naval officers have noted during their observations with the armies of Europe. It will be equipped with a 140-horsepower engine and twin propellers of the Swivelling type.

For military reasons, some of the improved features of the machine are kept se—ret.

MELROSE WOMAN EXPOSES FATHER IN HIS DUAL LIFE

Mrs. Ruth M. Holden of Melrose Highland, who bares story of father's double life after twenty years of silence.

FATHER'S DUAL LIFE EXPOSED AFTER YEARS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The protest filed in the Surrogate's Court by Mrs. Ruth M. Holden of Melrose Highlands, Mass., against the probate of the will of her uncle, Silas P. Hubbell, on the ground that the defendant had agreed to leave her half of his estate, resulted in a motion being made by the executors before Justice Pendleton of the Supreme Court to compel Mrs. Holden to file a copy of the alleged agreement. Argument on the motion will be heard later.

Mr. Hubbell died at Daytona, Fla., two years ago, leaving an estate estimated to be worth $2,000,000. In explanation of the agreement Mrs. Holden said that her father, Sidney Hubbell, had two families. He was married first in 1861, and had three children—herself and two others. Later her father and mother were estranged and when her father died he had three daughters from a second union with Miss Isabelle Maxwell. He left these children all of his fortune except legacies of $10,000 each to each of the children by his first marriage.

Mrs. Holden said that she was going to contest the will, but was induced by her uncle, for the sake of the family's good name to remain quiet, he promising to leave her half of all he possessed. So she instructed her lawyers to drop the case. When her uncle's will was filed for probate she was surprised to learn, she said, that his agreement with her was not kept. She got nothing at all, while her brother, Dr. Silas Hubbell, was remembered to the extent of $10,000, the children of her father by his second marriage receiving $10,000 each and valuable real estate in Florida, and her father's second wife received the family homestead at Chatham, N. Y.

Burns Are Fatal to Dedham Woman

Mrs. Catherine O'Connell, forty-five, wife of John J. O'Connell, a Dedham business man, died today at the Massachusetts General Hospital as a result of burns received on September 5. Mrs. O'Connell was cleaning some clothing with gasoline when it exploded, setting the clothing on fire. In attempting to extinguish the flames, her own clothing caught fire. Mrs. O'Connell's two daughters, in attempting to extinguish the flames on their mother's clothing were also burned about the hands.

Germans Had Base in English Channel

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—That Germany secretly established a submarine base on Guernsey Island, in the English Channel, and that thirty supposed fishermen captured there proved to be enlisted men in the German navy, was the information brought to New York today by Frank S. Perr of Ithaca, N. Y., who arrived in the liner Minnehaha. "These 'fishermen' were caught setting cases of petrol adrift for the submarines to pick up," said Mr. Perr. "They probably will be shot. It is reported in England that twenty-eight German submarines have been caught in steel nets set by the English."

Ambassador Willard Sued.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 21.—Joseph E. Willard, American Ambassador to Spain, has been sued for $50,000 damages by Charles L. Ruffin, who alleges breach of contract. Ruffin was chief engineer of the Richmond & Rappahannock River Railroad, owned by Colonel Willard.

How to Treat the Skin

Many skin diseases like eczema are due to an external cause and are not the result of impure blood. The taking of internal medicines is a waste of time and money, as many sufferers can testify. The simplest and safest remedy is Cadum ointment. It stops the itching at once, and the healing begins immediately. People who have suffered for years and who have tried everything should take fresh courage, for this new compound is different from anything else. It is for Eczema, sores, psoriasis, ulcers, ringworm, rash, pimples, scaly skin, scabs, eruptions, blotches, itch, etc., 10c. and 25c. per box at druggists.—Advertisement.

Thousands Held Up in New York Tube

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The entire twenty miles of the main artery of New York's subway system was paralyzed for nearly half an hour today in the heart of the rush hour by a short circuit. All the power was turned off and thousands of persons were caught in the tube and made late for work.

To Bury F-4 Bodies in Arlington Cemetery

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 21.—Plans for the burial of the thirteen bodies of victims of the submarine F-4, which went to the bottom of Honolulu Harbor, were completed today. The bodies were brought to the United States yesterday on the United States naval station ship Supply. The four identified dead were placed in separate coffins to be shipped home to relatives. The others will be buried in the Arlington National Cemetery.

BOSTON MAN NOW FEELS LIKE NEW

Charles D. Tesche, of No. 17 Pearl St., Attributes Good Health to Plant Juice.

When nature calls for assistance, it is needed quickly, and it must be a remedy that leaves no bad after-effects, that builds up, not tears down. This is the logical effect of Plant Juice, the great herbal system tonic, as is attested by testimonials of well-known local people who have regained their health by the use of this preparation.

For instance, Mr. Charles D. Tesche, of No. 17 Pearl Street, a well-known carpenter of this city, tells in the following testimonial how he was relieved by Plant Juice. He said:

"For five years I suffered with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia. I had no appetite and could scarcely keep food of any kind on my stomach. My food fermented in my stomach and caused gas and bloating. I had severe pains in the top of my head, dizzy spells, poor circulation, as my feet and hands were always cold. I was restless and nervous and could not get any sleep at night as my stomach bothered me so much and felt as if I had a lump of lead in it. I had tried remedies of all kinds, but got no benefit from any of them. A friend of mine recommended Plant Juice to me. I have taken several bottles of it and now feel like a new man as I can eat any kind of food, have no more aches or pains, and can certainly say that Plant Juice is O. K. I can recommend it to anyone.

"There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach: Indigestion, dyspepsia, belching of gas, bad breath, poor circulation, sick, throbbing headaches, night sweats, that tired feeling, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion.

"The Plant Juice Man is at the Liggett Drug Co.'s store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

Fashion's Dicta:—

Large, Small and Medium Size Hats Are Equally Good

The clever Parisian designers favor styles of the Louis Phillippe and Second Empire periods, which indicates a return to the medium and high crown hats, rather a drastic change from recent styles. Adornments are rich and simple—ornaments of colored and steel beads are much favored. You will find either the originals or replicas from the world's best artists in our spacious Millinery Salons. Our own artists' copies and adaptations have made White's the most popular millinery store in New England.

The Parade of Faces

Each Is the Mirror of the Mind—Study Your Own

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

DO you ever study the faces in public conveyances—trolleys, stages, railroad trains, omnibuses?

It is interesting and instructive. Each face is a diary of the thoughts, ambitions, habits and diet of an individual.

And how few attractive faces are found after the owners have passed thirty, forty or fifty at latest. Not one in one hundred. That is because so few people think, hope, live and eat on a proper and wholesome basis.

Wrong methods do not betray themselves often until after early youth passes.

Youth is a beauty mask which life lends to each of us at birth. At thirty we are obliged to return it to its owner and walk forth with the face of our own making.

The mouths of children almost invariably curl up at the corners.

Occasionally the mouth of a young girl or youth keeps this fascinating dart.

It is rarely found on the middle-aged. Not because time causes a change—time is powerless to do more than make nature what God has bestowed. It is the work of our minds, this transformation of features at middle age.

It is the drooping, despondent thought which curves the mouth down at the corners, not the flight of time.

THE MOUTH'S SHAPE

Were I a man, I should study well the shape of the mouth before I asked its kiss at the altar. I should wed the upcurled mouth, and then I should make it the business of my life to keep its corners curled upward afterward.

It is a curious and overwhelming thing, this study of faces. I looked at a man the other day in a public conveyance. He was well dressed, middle-aged and busy reading his paper. I said to myself, "You are no doubt a husband and father, on your way home after business.

"I wonder what you represent to that home? Are you a mere money-making machine during the day and a combination of nerves and whims and notions and tempers at home? Do you carry depression and worry and nervousness into your home, or love, light, mirth and good cheer?"

Then I look at a well groomed, attractive woman hanging on a strap (the man was sitting) and I queried: "What do you represent in the home where you belong—love, peace, repose, order, kindness, sympathy and patience, or hysteria, petulance, extravagance, frivolity and jealousy? Have you any realization of all you may do or can mean to your family or to the world?"

Each human being is like an engine rushing down life's track.

It depends upon its driver—the will—whether it goes on its way crushing and destroying and maiming, and ends in a ruin, or whether it glides straight and harmlessly to its goal, a vehicle for good thoughts, purposes and deeds.

STUDY YOUR FACE

After you have finished reading this article, go to your mirror and study your face. If you have any old photographs taken in earlier days, compare your reflection with them. Find out what your mind is doing with your features. For it is not time, trouble or sorrow that is changing you—it is your mind.

Christ's face is sorrowful, yet beautiful and illuminated, because He radiated love from within.

Each one of us carries an aura, a reflection of our deepest and most permanent thoughts. All who come near us feel its influence—for better or for worse, for cheer or despondency.

To the very spiritual, the clear-seeing souls, it is visible oftimes. Those who cultivate love thoughts and broad sympathies and wide charity and high hopes carry an aura of light and radiance and warmth which is an inspiration to all who come near them.

Do you?

Ask yourself that as you study your face in the mirror.

Rough on the Lamb

The proprietor of a menagerie keeps caged together a lion, a tiger, a wolf and a lamb, which he labels "The Happy Family." When asked confidentially how long these animals had lived together, he answered:

"Ten months; but the lamb has had to be renewed occasionally."

New Method Makes Straight Hair Wavy

(Popular Hygiene.)

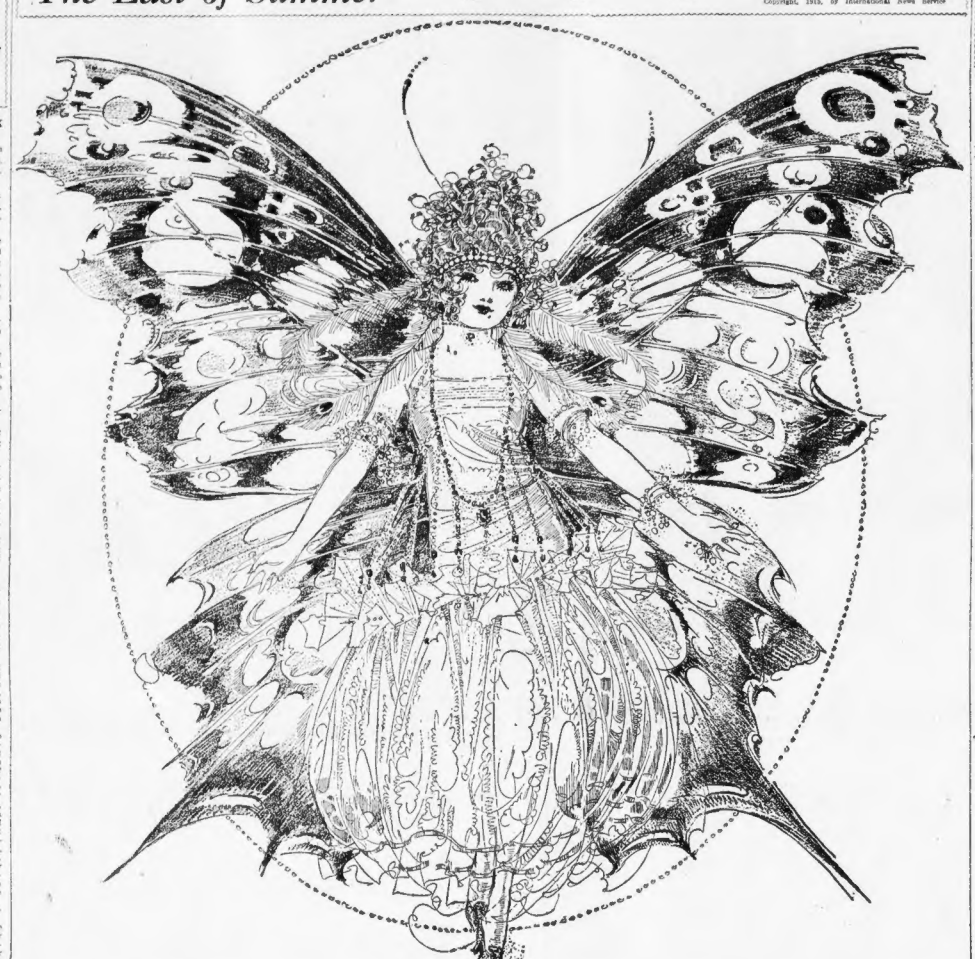
It has been found that a simple and harmless fluid well known in the drug trade, has a remarkable action when applied to straight, lank, unruly hair. It dries in exquisite waves and curls which have all the appearance of true naturalness. It has also proved a delightful and beneficial dressing for the hair.

This product is nothing more than ordinary liquid cutinerine, which of course anyone can afford to use. A few ounces of it will last a long time. One will enjoy using it, too, not only because there is nothing sticky, greasy or unpleasant about it, but because it is so easy to apply. It is only necessary to moisten a clean tooth brush with the liquid and draw this through the hair from crown to tip. If this is done at bedtime the hair will be beautifully wavy and curly in the morning, and will not have that dull, scorched look which comes from the use of a hot iron.—Advertisement.

The Last of Summer

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service



BUTTERFLIES go with the ending of Summer—butterfly girls go with the ending of the gay night that is their lives. Butterflies grow rare and at last do not flicker gold anywhere, when the sumac turns scarlet and the aspen on the far hills changes into little golden coins; butterfly girls va- - - are no more dimples and sparkle and laughter when there is no more fun to have, when the lights are out and real work comes. But I love a golden butterfly in the sun, and who doesn't joy to watch the butterfly girl dance her way through the sober faces and the earnest!

Somebody said: "A Butterfly lives but a day AND WHAT IF THAT DAY IS RAINY!" So, little butterfly girl whose day is so short, may it be sunny and clear.

How Authors Won Fame

Harder to Catch Than a Will-o'-the-Wisp

LITERARY fame is a will-o'-the-wisp, and nothing is more interesting than the attainment. Elinor Glyn wrote "Visits of Elizabeth," the book which first brought her literary fame, to distract her thoughts during illness. "About fifteen or sixteen years ago," she says, "I became so crippled with rheumatism that I did not care much whether I lived or died. Then one day I began to wonder what a young girl would think and feel during her first round of visits to country houses. When I was a girl I visited many country houses and kept journals of my doings, and as I lay in my lounge chair, my imagination began to work, and with my own diaries for a foundation I started to write 'The Visits of Elizabeth.'

"I knew so little about authorship that I perpetrated the fearful crime of writing on both sides of the paper in an ordinary copy-book. We sent the 'Visits' to the London World, where they appeared anonymously. When they were published in book form and proved so popular, my interest in life revived, and my recovery was rapid. This is how I 'broke into print,' and to me it was a very pleasant way of doing so."

A commonplace, unromantic trap-door led Mr. and Mrs. C. Williamson to write their first story together. Around this trap-door, which was in the front of the drawing room of a quaint old Surrey farmhouse where they lived shortly after they were married, was weaved a romance which they called "Midnight and the Man." This story was ultimately sent to the editor of the Strand Magazine, who promptly accepted it.

It is a curious fact that the first story written by H de Vere Stacpoole, the famous author of "The Blue Lagoon," is almost worth its weight in gold. It was called "Pierrot," and was published during the Yellow Book era. Aubrey Beardsley did the illustrations and cover design. "Pierrot" sold moderately. A couple of years after it was published you could have bought copies exceedingly cheap. Today you have to pay ten or fifteen times the published price.

E. Temple Thurston wrote his first successful novel, "The Apple of Eden," when he was seventeen years of age. "It shared the fate of most first books," he says: "it was refused where most I expected it to be taken, by the only publishing house where I thought I had a friend. I lived in Ireland at the time, and not until I was twenty-one and married did I go to London."

On Strict Commercial Lines

"There is only a slight difference of opinion between myself and that political economist," said the merchant.

"And what is that?"

"He thinks my business should be managed for the benefit of the public, while my idea is that the public should be managed for the benefit of my business!"

Adventures in Saving

(Here is a letter on saving from a young man telling how he has improved his opportunities:)

By A MEDICAL STUDENT.

MY father never drinks, smokes or gambles. He never enjoyed a large salary, but on the principle that "every little bit added to what you've got makes a little bit more," he has accumulated a comfortable fortune.

My mother has travelled the rocky road of life side by side with my father—share and share alike. What he earned she took care not to fritter away—no latest styles, or living up to Mrs. Jones next door.

I was graduated from the High School in 1910. For six years previous to that I had worked during each Summer vacation. For three years after graduation I worked without any vacation. My salary, even when it was very small, I always divided into three equal parts.

One part I gave to my mother, one part I put in the bank for future use, and one part I spent on myself—clothes, books and pleasures.

Little by little my savings grew until I calculated they were sufficient to carry me through a college course to a medical degree. Although my parents wanted to send me to college immediately after I left High School, I preferred to save up my own money and go there on my own book—secure in the knowledge that my parents were always back of me with an only too ready helping hand.

On the strength of the money I have saved I will graduate from the medical college two years from now.

My parents attribute their success in life and their present position of affluence to their consistent saving. I will attain my ambition —the degree of Doctor of Medicine —by virtue of my habit of steady saving.

Steady, consistent saving is the foundation stone of success.

Life-Savers

A policeman entered the house of an English publican one morning and informed him that it would be necessary to hold an inquest there in the afternoon.

Now the landlord had a great objection to anything of that kind, and said:

"Oh, I can't be troubled with inquests in my house. Here, what'll you have to drink?"

Roberts said he'd have a drop of Scotch, which he did.

"Have a cigar, too," said the host.

After the consumption of two Scotches and cigars, the constable said he thought he could get the inquest held somewhere else; but as he was leaving the landlord remarked:

"By the way, whom are they going to hold the inquest on?"

"No one as I knows of now," said the man in blue, "but it 'ld 'a' been on me if I hadn't had those drinks and smokes."

A Non-Stopper.

Customer: "Why, to tell you the truth, the wife ran away last night."

Pretty Waitress: "I shouldn't take on about that if I were you."

Customer: "I don't; but she came back again this morning."

How Much Do You Save?

Hundreds of thousands of married men and women and hundreds of thousands of unmarried fail to save a portion of their incomes.

Hundreds of thousands of others put away a certain sum each week or month.

The Boston American invites its readers to give their experiences in saving for publication on this page.

These experiences, besides being of interest as human documents, will be a help and an inspiration to those who have not cultivated the habit of thrift.

Why We Quarreled--The Man's Side

No. 6—The Husband Who Antagonized His Wife by Attention to His Own Mother, Tells His Story

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

Copyright, 1915, Star Company.

ONE of my fond dreams has been that my wife and my mother and sisters should love one another. It has never been realized. On the contrary, my mother and my sisters have been the cause of heart-breaking troubles between my wife and myself.

Until after our marriage Helen showed no signs of a jealous disposition. Even now she is not jealous of any woman except those that are in my own family. She and they simply cannot understand one another.

The first quarrel my wife and I ever had was when she wanted to give a little musicale in our home and did not name my sisters among the young people she was inviting.

"You have forgotten Mary and Anna," I reminded her.

"No," she said, "I have not forgotten them. But we cannot have them at every affair we give."

"Why not?" I asked. "We have had them at everything so far."

"Yes," Helen acknowledged, "I know we have, and we cannot keep that up always. The longer we defer entertaining without their absence and presence, the harder it will be to begin. We would have to do so sooner or later, anyway."

"But they are always helpful," I argued. "You have often said how nice they are about advising you."

"I have not said they were 'nice' about advising me," she corrected. "I have said they often advise me."

"Well," I suggested after a moment's thought, "suppose we do as you propose and leave the girls out of this affair and ask mother and father instead?"

"That would never do," she explained, "for this is a young people's musicale. There are to be no elderly persons present."

I felt very uncomfortable about the matter and could only hope that my family would not hear of the function.

THE MOTHER OBJECTS

But a few days later when I stopped in, as was my frequent custom, to see my mother on my way home from business, she asked me bluntly how it happened that we had given a young people's party and left my sisters out.

"They were surprised and hurt," she remarked.

I had felt all along that Helen was making a mistake, yet now I found myself championing her cause and speaking from her viewpoint.

"Why, mother," I said, "you see, we know a great many people, and I do not think that the girls ought to expect to be invited to every entertainment we give."

"Why not?" she argued, just as I had done in my dispute with my wife.

"Well," I replied lamely, "Helen is a young housekeeper, and naturally she likes to run her own house unassisted—at least she likes to show that she can do so. And if she had some of my people on hand all the time, it looks a bit as if she depended upon them for help and advice, doesn't it?"

"I see, my mother said slowly. "Then Helen resents our desire to help her. The girls and I will try to be more careful in the future. We are sorry to be a bother."

That was the beginning of trouble. I knew that my people had, as my mother said, meant to be good to my wife, yet I could not make Helen see this. Little by little the gulf between them grew wider. I protested with both sides. I appealed affectionately to my sisters, but they said loftily that they preferred not to argue about the matter; that, of course, I would take Helen's side.

Then, one day, I decided to talk no more of a painful subject and not mention Helen to my family, nor my family to Helen. I saw that for a while my wife was relieved by this arrangement. And I became uncomfortably aware that my mother and sisters had bored her, that she had social aspirations above theirs, that—as she would have put it—she wanted to live her own life. I also became convinced that she thought I, too, was drifting away from my own people.

WIFE OBJECTS

I could not stand this and I forced myself to say casually to Helen, one evening, that I had stopped in to see mother, as usual, on my way from the office.

"As usual!" Helen echoed. "You go there just as often as you once did?"

"Certainly," I replied with dignity. "I go to see my mother at least twice a week, as I have always done and always shall do."

"In spite of the fact that she snubs and dislikes your wife?" Helen asked.

"It is not her fault that there is a breach between you and her," I said. "It is not of her making."

"Oh!" she exclaimed. "How can you say such a thing! Just because I showed that I had a mind of my own, and would not be directed and ruled by your mother and sisters, they have let me severely alone. And all this time, when I thought you were on my side, you have been going to see them. You, my husband, love them so much better than you love me that you stand for that kind of thing!"

"Helen!" I chided. "I love nobody better than you!"

"Then stop going to see your people!" she demanded.

I said nothing, but went out of the room and left her alone with her wrath.

Since then I have never again told her when I have been to see my mother and sisters. I know that she knows, and she knows that I know she knows.

Yet the matter is never mentioned by either of us. It stands between us like a stone wall—a wall that can never be removed because it is built of a man's loyalty to his own and of a wife's jealousy of that loyalty.

To See, Not to Hear

Doctor (politely, but looking at his watch with visible impatience)—Pardon, madam, but my time is not my own. You have given me all your symptoms in sufficient detail, and now, perhaps, you will kindly——er—hi——

Husband (not so considerate)—Maria, he doesn't want to hear your tongue any more. He wants to look at it.

According to Nature

"No, I don't care for that terrier," said a young lady in a dog fancier's shop; "his legs are too short."

"You couldn't have 'em any longer, Miss; they reach right down to the ground!" said the dog fancier.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had failing, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, irritable, I passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in the grave or in an asylum if Pinkham's medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, and I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."—MRS. JOSIE HAM, R. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.

All our testimonials are guaranteed genuine and truthful. They came to us entirely unsolicited and are sincere expressions of gratitude for actual benefits derived from the medicine.

TODAY'S BEAUTY SUGGESTIONS

Face powder simply covers up an unattractive complexion and leaves no lasting benefits. Those who have tried a simple spurmax face lotion find it much better, as it removes skin discolorations, such as freckles and tan, and leaves the skin smooth, white and velvety. This lotion is made by dissolving four ounces of spurmax in one-half pint hot water, then add two teaspoonfuls glycerin. This complexion beautifier does not rub off or show like powder, and gives a more refined appearance. It removes both shininess and sallowness rapidly and puts the skin a permanent healthy, youthful appearance.

An especially fine shampoo for this weather can be had at trifling expense by dissolving a teaspoonful of canthrox in a cup of hot water. Pour slowly on scalp and massage briskly. This creates a soothing, cooling lather that dissolves and removes all dandruff, excess oil and dirt. Rinsing leaves the scalp spotlessly clean, soft and glossy, while the hair has taken on a silken richness of natural color, also a fluffiness which makes it seem very much heavier than it is. After a canthrox shampoo arranging the hair is a pleasure.—Advertisement.

1915 FOLLIES AS GORGEOUS AS RAINBOW

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

As gorgeous as a rainbow and as dazzling as a jewelry store window are Ziegfeld's Follies of 1915 at the Colonial Theatre, all dressed up as they are in finery invented by Joseph Urban, who built so many wonderful productions for the Boston opera.

The Follies, which were once nothing but a vaudeville show with a chorus attachment, have developed into a huge and fascinating spectacle without losing any of their fun-provoking features. Not so long ago they were considered a naughty entertainment. There is nothing in this season's show to "offend the most fastidious."

The chorus is very large and beautiful and the display of limbs and forms is quite lavish as of yore, but the costumes are always artistic and the mantle of art covers even Kay Laurell's daring poses.

There are twenty scenes in the Follies of 1915, and a dozen of them are massive and imposing affairs, particularly "The Bottom of the Sea," "Hadium Land" and "Elysium," which are in Urban's most superb style.

NEW COMERS IN CAST.

The show was written by Channing Pollock, Rennold Wolf and Gene Buck, and the music by Louis Hirsch and David Stamper. If the Follies have improved in every other respect, the music is just the sort of thing it always has been—rag time of the most ordinary sort.

The company this year contains most of the old favorites. Leon Errol, Bert Williams, Anna Pennington and Ed Wynn. The new-comers are Mae Murray, the celebrated dancer; W. C. Fields, a comedy juggler who is positively amazing; Ina Claire, the charming dancer, singer and mimic; Lucille Cavanaugh, the dancer; Phil Dwyer, the animal actor, and Kay Laurell, the beautiful model.

Perhaps the funniest and most original scene is part moving picture and part real, in which most of the principals are first on the stage, next in the movie and then back again.

A very amusing episode is the jungle scene when Bert Williams is used as bait for a lion, and Phil Dwyer as the lion recognizes him as an old benefactor, a la "Androcles and the Lion." The pool room scene in which Field mistakes a pool table provokes peals of laughter.

DANCING WONDERFUL.

This is really a wonderful dancing show, with Mae Murray, the beautiful and brilliant ballroom dancer; Lucille Cavanaugh, Anna Pennington and Carl Randall all in the company, and the best spectacle of the piece is the dramatic dance, entitled "Oriental Love," in which Miss Murray, Miss Cavanaugh and Mr. Randall appear.

Bert Williams, of course, has much to do, and so has Leon Errol. They are at their best in the Bunkem apartment scene where Williams is the bellhop and Errol a drunk who desires to go to bed in the hotel office.

Of course Williams Jennings Bryan is caricatured and by Will West, while Ed Wynn takes a fall out of Billy Sunday and has a very funny monologue.

The song hit of the piece is sung by Charles Purcell and Ina Claire and entitled "Hello, Frisco." It is sung in front of a huge gas relief map dotted with girls, which is a lot better than the song.

The finale of the first act is patriotic as usual and includes all the crowned heads of Europe and Woodrow Wilson.

ARCHIBALD SAYS HE HAD NO HAND IN CONSPIRACY

James F. J. Archibald, the American war correspondent, bearer of the letter that caused the demand for Ambassador Dumba's recall, photographed on his return from Europe on the liner Rotterdam.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—James F. J. Archibald, the American newspaper correspondent, who carried dispatches which led to Ambassador Dumba's recall being demanded of Vienna when they were discovered by the British, is expected to be interrogated by Secretary of State Lansing. Archibald says he had no hand in any plot.

At the Department of Justice it was said no decision has been yet reached as to what action will be taken, if any, against Archibald.

Secret service men who interviewed him aboard the Rotterdam at New York quarantine, according to Archibald, merely asked if he had been presented with a gold headed cane or had been asked to deliver a cane to any one in Europe before his departure. Upon his assurance, he said, that he had not, the officers asked no further questions.

"Dr. Dumba's letter," said he, "was given to me most openly at the steamer's gangplank just before sailing. Hundreds of persons were about and there was not the slightest suggestion of secrecy. Of its contents I had absolutely no knowledge. I supposed, of course, that it simply referred to my work. I feel that the very open manner in which the letter was given me shows that Dr. Dumba had no intention of using me or my passport as a shield for the transmission of any improper letters.

"I did not consciously break either the spirit or the letter of my passport or of any law, but merely did what every traveler crossing the ocean does, by carrying notes or small packages as an accommodation to friends, just as I did when I returned from Germany last year, when I carried several letters and official dispatches to our State Department for Ambassador Gerard and packages for Mrs. Gerard and others. Of course, in doing this for Ambassador and Mrs. Gerard I did it simply as a matter of friendship, precisely as I carried the letters in this case."

Archibald stated that before leaving for belligerent territory, "to do field work with armies engaged in the war," he sought letters of introduction and recommendation. These letters, most of which were in German, he said, were delivered to him at his hotel in New York.

"Feeling that I here might be a strong anti-American sentiment in Germany," Archibald declared, "and not knowing to what extent that might inconvenience those traveling with me, I asked Prince Hatzfeldt to prepare me an open letter stating that I was friendly to their cause."

According to Archibald no suggested, almost word for word, the letter which Prince Hatzfeldt wrote, which he said, he intended to use only in the event of being subjected to any local hostile demonstration.

EMOTIONS RUN FULL FORCE AT KEITH'S

The emotions run full force at Keith's Theatre this week, with prizering melodrama, sweet sentiment and rich nonsense coming and going.

"The Yellow Streak," headed by Taylor Granville and Laura Pierpont, is the flatic element. It winds up with a sudden scrap between two featherweights that is fast enough to be real.

Herbert Williams, aided by Hilda Wolfus, follows the boxing skit with a piano travesty that is a scream—more than that—it's a shriek. Williams springs one absurdity after another and has the house really begging for more.

Gautier's animated toy shop shows dogs and ponies in novel acts. Kaufman Brothers give laughable chatter and acceptable song, with a bright bit for an encore.

There is a warm welcome for William Pruette and the other singers in "A Holland Romance." The book of this miniature opera is arranged to give Mr. Pruette opportunity to sing "I Want What I Want When I Want It," his popular air from "Mlle. Modiste." He is roundly applauded.

The Everetts in "Adam and Eve Up-to-Date" joke about snakes and ribs and clothing and such Eden chatter. A sample—Adam and Eve's telephone number is "231 Apple."

"Cranberries" is a bright and wholesome sketch of gaucho and finance and the business aped a youth can show with a winsome girl to give him impetus.

Weston and Clare sing and dance and are particularly stilts at the latter. Gaston Palmer juggles cleverly and the pictures show the world in motion.

St. James Theatre.

"Hazel Dawn" was seen at the St. James Theatre yesterday in a splendid photo play entitled "The Heart of Jennifer." Miss Dawn was supported by an excellent cast of players. Among the vaudeville features to appear were the celebrated comedian, Bob Hall. Another interesting feature was the Max Oben Troupe, consisting of ten Arabs in sensational whirlwind acrobatic stunts. Others were the Richard Warner players in a clever comedy drama entitled "When It Strikes Home." Taher and Green, the celebrated colored comedians, amused with their comedies and songs. Van and Hazen also delighted with their bits of musical comedy. Leo Feist singers offered their latest song hit.

CRAIG PLAYERS SCORE HIT IN 'GIRL IN TAXI'

"The Girl in the Taxi" invoked hearty laughter when it was presented yesterday by the Craig Players at the Castle Square Theatre.

The farce is very well cast. William B. Carleton, in the character of the bronchial cousin from Philadelphia, is unctuous and comical alternately. He seemed to enjoy the role, as indeed did every member of the company his or her part.

Mr. Carleton sang "Very Well, Then" in the third act, astonishing some people who have not known that he was a trained singer long before he joined the Craig Players.

Mary Barnemann, who was very fetching as the wife of the Jersey perfumer, also had a son, in this play. She, too, is well known as a stage singer, and made a very pleasing impression.

Donald Meek, as Bertie, the nervous boy, willing to learn to love but without funds for the tuition fee, made the most of a difficult role. His bleating after "mamma," followed by the revelation that he was accustomed to pawning his father's clothes to get money for his experiments; his ignorance of cafe manners and his instant readiness at solution of his troubles by borrowing from everybody who entered his private dining room; his neat dancing and his patter song, "The Midnight Crew," all made him a very smart character.

Next week's bill will be George Cohan's "The Miracle Man."

Park Theatre.

The Paramount program at the Park Theatre this week is responsible for the screen debut of two talented and well-liked actors of the regular stage, John Mason, whom Daniel Frohman presents in "Jim the Penman," and Lou Tellegen, who appears in "The Explorer," by W. Somerset Maugham, adapted for the screen by William C. De Mille.

"Jim the Penman," in the films loses none of the tenseness of its dramatic feeling, for John Mason permeates his pantomime with dramatic force. The plot of the play keeps the interest keen in its unfoldment, for the story of the banker who leads a double life, being on his evil side a clever forger, is full of excitement.

Lou Tellegen brings to the screen all his talent for vivid acting. He is a master of delicate and expressive miming and his ability finds wide scope in this story.

Gaiety Theatre.

The attraction presented this week for the selection of the Gaiety patrons is "Blutch" Cooper's well known Roseland Girls, headed by the burlesque stars, Solly Wafd and Virginia Ware.

Ward presents a type of eccentric German comedian which is not common in these kind of shows and which proved very refreshing to the two audiences yesterday. Miss Ware is a most fascinating prima donna, soubrette style of girl, who shares equally the honors of Mr. Ward.

Coming Events at Boston Theatres

TREMONT THEATRE.

"On Trial" will be the next attraction at the Tremont Theatre and will come to that house next Monday evening, straight from its all-season success at the Candler Theatre in New York city.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

The Plymouth Theatre will reopen on Monday, October 4, with the presentation for the first time in Boston of Selwyn & Co.'s newest play "Black Home." The play is founded upon a series of stories written by Irvin Cobb and recently published in the Saturday Evening Post.

Tremont Temple.

"The Battle of Przemysl" is the title of a series of the most vivid pictures of the European war taken since the beginning of the great struggle. They were shown here yesterday for the first time at the Tremont Temple.

From the first to the last picture you get an intimate, realistic and close-up picturisation of the scenes leading up and including the retaking of the celebrated fortress.

The pictures were taken with government supervision under the leadership of Fritz von Wagoner and A. K. Dawson, an American. One notable feature, which will lend to the success of the pictures during their exhibition in this city, is that everything shown is of before and in the event—not afterwards. The scenes fairly chase each other in swift pulsations of wonderful action across the screen.

The sub-titles are clearly descriptive. In the culminating scene of the last storming the onrushing Austrians are seen climbing up the steep heights to the very walls of the fortifications, falling in heaps and finally forcing the breach.

Waldron's Casino.

Al Reeves with his Big Beauty Show are at Waldron's Casino this week, which means that this popular theatre was crowded twice yesterday and will be at every performance of the week.

It is a mystery to older heads in the burlesque wheel how Reeves manages to put out so expensive a comedy and such a really great entertainment and keep them out for the season. The ordinary manager would go into bankruptcy in a few weeks.

First, there is Reeves himself. Then there are Maud Rockwell, Frank Wakefield and Billy Inman, who for several seasons have been at the head of their own organizations; the Monarch Comedy Four, one of the highest paid quartets on the stage; the beautiful Vera Morton, who posed for the celebrated painting, "The Titian Beauty"; Louise Ellison and Rene Cooper, with a record of long popular successes to their credit; Ruth Burns and Dave Wallace, banjo experts of an extraordinary kind; Joe Simon, the dancing fat man; Ruth Wilson, a well known protean artiste, and two dozen of the prettiest girls and clever girls in his chorus that ever Reeves has brought to Boston.

Exeter Street Theatre.

RIGOLETTO SUNG BY SAN CARLO COMPANY

A large audience saw the reopening of the Boston Opera House last night for a week of grand opera. The San Carlo opera company sang "Rigoletto" and will reproduce some of the favorite popular grand operas during the week.

The audience was lavish with its applause and curtain calls were frequent. There was a liberal attendance of well-gowned women in the boxes, and it was a bit reminiscent of the regular opera season at this house, which were interrupted by the war.

"Rigoletto" was well sung and was accompanied by a well-balanced and excellently conducted orchestra. For an opening night the performance moved with remarkable smoothness and clerity.

Edizio Vaccari, who has a clear and melodious soprano of unusual range and who uses it with good judgment and discretion, sang Gilda. Mlle Picco was the Rigoletto. He acted with much intensity and versatility and sang the part well.

Emanuel Salazar sang the Duke. He has a high tenor of excellent quality. Vaccari Salazar and Picc were vociferously applauded. Of course the latter, in the culminating scene of the last storming the onrushing Austrians are seen climbing up the steep heights to the very walls of the fortifications, falling in heaps and finally forcing the breach.

Other principals were Sparafuelle; Stella Demette, Maddalena; Anna Baase, the Countess and Juana; Natale Cervi, Monterone; A. Canova, the Count; Luciano Rossini, Borsa, and Annetto Cholbot, the page. All of them and the chorus sang good singing.

The opera was splendidly staged and the costumes were new and brilliant.

Fortune Gallo is manager of the company. He had an auspicious opening and everything indicates a successful week. The company is good, well schooled and gives a spirited and delightful performance.

Boston Theatre.

The adored Adonis of the "movies," Francis X. Bushman, in "The Silent Voice," a superb six-act romance of the lover of a blind musician, is the big attraction at the Boston Theatre the first half of this week.

Mr. Bushman plays the gifted young artist who finds his hopes blasted, first in the loss of his sight, second by the death of his beloved mother, and thirdly by the apparent perfidy of his adored young wife. Now he finds his way out of the darkness into the light and everything comes out right in the end, and makes a delightful romance.

Lieut. Gus B. Nichols and her famous Fadettes of Boston, the largest and finest women's orchestra in America, continues their record-breaking engagement. This week a new scenic setting, showing a mountain pass in the heart of the Rockies, was added to the beautiful stage effects. Other features include "You Know Me, Al," baseball stories, and a Mary Pickford romance, with numerous other features. The first half of the week the feature will be "The Great Ruby."

Plays That Remain at Boston Theatres

PARK SQUARE THEATRE.

There has never appeared in Boston such a delightful play so thoroughly surcharged with all the provocations of true humor and laugh-provoking qualities as "Twin Beds," Selwyn & Co.'s laugh festival, which last night entered upon the fourth week of its engagement at the Park Square Theatre.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The twenty-fifth week of the run of D. W. Griffith's mighty spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," began yesterday with two large attendances at the Majestic Theatre. One week more and it will have been presented continuously in this city, twice daily, for just a half year.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

"Experience," at the Shubert Theatre, began the fourth week of its record-breaking run last night with another capacity audience. No play in years has scored the hit achieved by "Experience" at the Shubert, and there is every likelihood that this unusual drama will stay in Boston half the season.

WILBUR THEATRE.

Owing to the enormous business being done by "Nobody Home," which started the last two weeks of its engagement at the Wilbur Theatre last night, Mr. Wilbur tried every conceivable means to induce Messrs Marbury and Comstock to prolong the engagement here, but without effect, because of the large advance sale in Philadelphia.

TREMONT THEATRE.

"The Song of Songs" began the third and last week of its successful engagement at the Tremont last night with Irene Fenwick, Thomas Wise and the rest of the big cast.

Scollay Square Olympia.

A splendid show, one of the best of the season, greeted the patrons of the Scollay Square Olympia yesterday. The bill included Prager and McGuire in song, dance and changes; Harry Godfrey and Veta Henderson, in their breezy patterlogue, entitled, "Aboard for Abroad," the Great Lamberti & Co. the master musician, in a protean musical act of the past and present great music masters; four dancing Harmonists in comedy singing; Samuel's "Cavalleria Rusticana," a condensed version of the great opera with a selected company of fourteen people and special scenery; and other big acts.

Globe Theatre.

The Globe patrons were treated to an all-star vaudeville performance at the Globe Theatre yesterday. Among the vaudeville features to appear was the Carl DeMan Troupe in sensational European acrobatic stunts. Keefe, Langdon and Wheeler pleased with their songs and comedy. Hilda Schea delighted the audience with her repertoire of songs. Henry Frey kept the house in laughter with his original specialty.

Modern Theatre.

"The Regeneration," a stirring five-part photo-play was presented for the first time in Boston at the Modern Theatre yesterday and with instant success. The piece is adapted from Owen Kildare's "My Mamie Rose," and is staged by the William Fox film studio.

The Wild Man Isn't Wild Any More

THE EX-WILDMAN'S STORY

When the Captain first captured this man whom we have called the wild man, he was more of a beast than a human being. He was hardly able to speak. He fought desperately to avoid being taken and had to be dragged into camp. In the pit he had undergone some great change. Our only explanation is that in shooting out of the mouth of the tunnel on to the gravel slide he had been shocked back into his senses by being hit on the head with a rock. His story will perhaps give you an inkling as to how he was shocked out of them.

"Me think how I here, me meet man like him!" As he said this, the ex-wild man pointed to Mike Swansen and Mike stepped back a few steps. "We friends. We hunt nuts, we eat fish, we catch birds. One day he tell me never to go into dark place (meaning the cave). He say never come out if I do. I say why, he tell me like this." Here our friend pointed up to the mouth of the tunnel and swept his hand around the pit. "One day he say we go catch fish. We go to water, he go in. I stay out on rock. Soon he cry." Here the ex-wild man uttered a shriek which echoed for fully a minute in the pit. "Big fish take friend away, then me here." The Captain thought it over for a minute or two and then decided that a shark had made away with the man's friend and the shock had disarranged his mind. "How did you get on this island in the first place?" asked the Captain. The poor man seemed trying to think. Then he said. (Continued to-morrow.)

ROUMANIA TO BE NEUTRAL, SAYS BERLIN

By International News Service.

BERLIN, via London, Sept. 21.—German official circles are now busily engaged in spreading the report that Roumania could be counted upon for active aid and that Roumania's assumption of neutrality is necessary to help the Teutonic allies. [illegible]

The declaration of general confidence as to the future attitude of Roumania came at a time when, in the public mind, where it was expected that the Roumanian government would support the Entente powers, Roumania's attitude had become [illegible] changed through the efforts of Count Czernin von Chudenitz, ambassador to Roumania, to come to an understanding with Bratianu, premier of Roumania, [illegible] Vossische Zeitung.

The correspondent of the paper reports that the Austrian envoy had succeeded in [illegible] Bratianu [illegible] policy of the Entente powers. [illegible] at the same time had presented evidence as to the past conduct of the Teutonic powers, operations and their future plans that convinced the Roumanian premier as to where the best interests of his country lay.

Officials of the Foreign office declined to comment [illegible] on reports that King Ferdinand of Roumania and King Peter [illegible] of Bulgaria would confer with Duke Ernest of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, Emperor William's personal [illegible] to serve. It was stated that Duke Johann was visiting [illegible] other [illegible] from the Emperor.

3 Short Plays for Cercle Francais

Three short plays for performance next December by the Cercle Francais of Harvard have been decided upon. The plays are Le Jeune Homme Pauvre, by Octave Feuillet; Les Deux Merres, by Eugene Brieux, a lively comedy; Libertine, by Maurice Donnay, new [illegible] of Moliere, and "Les Deux Sceurs," by Moliere. The Performances will be given in Boston and Cambridge.

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE

The Red Sox won, and after [illegible] the Tygers with whom else soever played. They had uphill work [illegible] staff, but [illegible] to hold, and no game was ever won more conclusively on its merits.

Baseball is still popular in Boston, and when I looked [illegible] ready bursting at the [illegible] and the grandstand looked quite [illegible] enough for a Bryan lecture [illegible] hence.

And ceaseless streams were [illegible] all the time; it [illegible] Mean-and to spare from our impartial audience.

The Sox got Hooper to [illegible] ond and another (Speaker) out at first, and then Hoblitzel sent Hooper in aided by a fumble by the outfielder; but we had to be content with one tally for the moment. Rome was not built in a day.

Second Inning—Yells from the Tyger coaches, amid which the first man up was caught out by Scott. Hoblitzel tried to catch the next hit, but the sun said "No" and he dropped it. The Tygers have this advantage over the Sox—that they are desperate, whereas the Sox can be no more than awfully anxious. Meanwhile the Sox are out for no runs.

Can the Sox make that winning run to even the score? Gardner is at first, at any rate, and gains second by Barry's altruism. Now he is on third and the band is drowned out by the shouting. Ruth to the rescue! But it was not his lucky hour, and he and Gardner perished in the same moment, victims of an insignificant bunt. The Tyger still leads.

TYGER SHOWS SHARP TEETH.

Third Inning—The Tyger feints for an opening, but Ruth has eyes in the back of his head, and all of a sudden one of the whelps is shot to death at third. Before we had quite split our throats and kid gloves over that the other two had been strangled, and the animal returns growling to his cage.

But his teeth are sharp still. In less time than it takes to tell it he had drawn the blood of our two first white hopes, another follows in ten seconds, and the score is still two to one against us.

Fourth Inning—Here we are at the fourth inning and have been at it only fifty minutes. Speaker, the inimitable, gathered in the first fly with scarce an effort; the next man is out at first and Ruth wipes his mouth on his forearm and glares at number three. Up goes a fly, and the sun is unneutral enough to hide behind a cloud while it is gathered in. So that risk is past.

SPEAKER MAKES CUSTOMARY EXPLOIT.

Dauss, however, is always there. When we hit him at all the results are not encouraging. One, two, three, and away goes one-half of the inning and naught accomplished. Perhaps number five will be luckier.

Fifth Inning—Well begun by a brilliant out at first; the would-be stealer couldn't get back quite quickly enough. One must move fast at this season of the year. Speaker contributes his usual exploit at centre on top of that; and before he can resume his position the side is out and the brass band plays a joyful dirge.

Had our first man up batted as well as he ran he might have made first base. But now a Tyger outfielder's first and second and thirty thousand people have hopes. But Henriksen could not make first, and the thirty thousand hearts are sick once more.

Sixth Inning—That two to one still [illegible] on the board. At all events, the odds will be no greater this time, for three Tygers are strangled at birth and we have another chance to show our prowess.

Speaker lounges to the plate like a [illegible] and Dauss thinks it wise to let him take his base unhindered. The thirty thousand are now clapping hands in time to the music. Next man out, but then an old fashioned [illegible] by Leonard and in comes [illegible] here with that winning run. The tumult and the shouting will not die. And Lewis, our third, is tearing over the home plate on Gardner's big hit. The Rubicon is crossed and the score is three to two. To make things more interesting Stanage is put out of the game for using [illegible] the umpire! Another catcher for the Tyger, please!

But to resume. Another hit fills first and second, and next moment one of them is at third. Can he come home? No. But let us count the eggs we have hatched and attend to eating [illegible] on the Tyger's tail.

Seventh Inning—One out at first, one on. A good base hit puts Lewis on third. A lively attempt at base stealing is [illegible] A brief conference between R. and Cobb is followed by the untimely decease of the remaining Tyger, and we are perhaps on the threshold of great events.

Let us see. Our first champion does not suffer long. Nor the second, it is further to first base than to Tipperary, sometimes. Speaker once more. Cheers! He reaches Tipperary all right, but events that followed immediately put an end to further deeds on our part, and the gray shirts are at the bat once again. Three to two!

Eighth Inning—Ruth has passed the first man, none other than Ty Cobb, but at the next play he is out at second. An easy fly accounts for another; but Hoblitzel's muff gives first to the third man up. Second is already occupied. And now Ruth walks the next aspirant, and the bases are full. Howls of suspense! Ruth gives place to Foster; may the latter do as well as his great predecessor!

Those bases are still full, and something has got to happen! It did; the batter struck out; the side retired, and the new pitcher felt better.

There was nothing in our half of the inning that need detain us—it did not detain the Red Sox long. They disappeared, one, two, three, and the ultimate round has been reached.

Ninth Inning—The [illegible] lightning is a snail compared with Foster's delivery. The Tygers are dazzled by this flashes, but one of them gets to first on wide balls. Out goes the next on a pop-up fly. And then a bang to centre meets with the same fate as the others that have gone in that direction, and the mighty and decisive conflict is over. In an instant there are a thousand happy Bostonians cavorting over the field, and all that we have left to do is to find a vehicle to take us home. Three to two stuck!

WHITE-GALLANT MEET TONIGHT AT ATLAS

ATLAS A. A. CARD.

Charley White, Chicago, vs. Gilbert Gallant, Chelsea: 12 rounds.

Howard McRae, Cambridge, vs. "Mickey" Brown, Malden: 8 rounds.

Mike Crowley, Malden, vs. "Young" Bladen, Woonsocket: 6 rounds.

Sammy Stearn, Boston, vs. "Spider" Murphy, North End: 6 rounds.

CHARLEY WHITE, the noted Chicago lightweight, is out to reestablish himself in the affections of Boston boxing lovers tonight. Proving a whirlwind here in his early bouts, though truth it is that in his maiden matches he went on with anything but high class biffers, Nate Lewis' charge, who has visions of bringing back to the U. S. the title Willie Ritchie carelessly left on the other side, White encountered a sure-enough, hope-to-die tartar in "Young" Saylor, the Indianapolis lightweight, the last time he showed his wares in our midst. Referee Rocha of New York adjudged that White did equally as good work as Saylor and thereby rendered a draw verdict. He hasn't been booked since. However, some $9 3-5 of the "fans" in attendance were confident that the Chicagoan was a well-whipped battler when the twelfth session was over.

WHITE'S opponent for tonight is Gilbert Gallant, the Chelsea ring-ster. Gallant is a rough, tough youth: one who always keeps going, even when up against it, and as he doesn't possess much speed, it should mean a racy, rugged two-fists-on-scrap. Secretary Ivy Lewis gayly announces that the reservations are the heaviest of the season. White has always played to big business in Boston and the "fans" evidently intend giving him the opportunity to prove himself no flivver.

THE prelims are unusually good. Howard McRae of Cambridge, who looms up as Boston's best boxing product in any and all divisions, goes on with "Mickey" Brown of Malden. McRae has the "class," while Brown is a boy who generally delivers. Mike Crowley of Malden has the bunch in it going to dispose of "Young" Bladen, the Woonsocket Wild-Cat, despite the fact that Bladen has been batting at a 1.000 clip of late weeks. The curtain-raiser brings together Sammy Stearn, who went over in hurrah fashion in his recent bout with Teddy Murphy, and "Spider" Murphy, a North Ender. Stearn declares he is going to continue whipping the Murphys as fast as they are put up against him.

THERE'S a New York referee coming to officiate and this one will be welcomed. Strangely, he is the same as that of the leading man in the windup, Charley White. It's the old, original Charley White, who has done a lot of good work in Gotham rings, and the Atlas A. A. folks are confident he will deliver.

BRAVES CLASH IN FINAL WITH CINCY

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21.—The Braves get through here today, and while visiting managers seldom send a left-hander against the residents, the chances are Chief Stallings will use either Tyler or Nehf. That will leave Rudolph fresh for the Pittsburgh inaugural Thursday, tomorrow being an open date for the Pepper Boys.

Herzog worked Toney out of turn yesterday and the Cub castoff, now one of the most valuable slabsters in the National League, twirled his usual high class game. The Braves found his fast shoots for but three hits and were mighty lucky they weren't shut out.

It is McKenery's turn to work for the Reds today. Then "King" Lear is also overdue. But maybe Herzog will continue to make it hard for Stallings and work Dale, his other star hurler, out of turn, the same as he did with Toney yesterday.

The Braves foll back half a length on the Phillies by coming to grief yesterday, and now stand five games out of first place. As the Robins also bumped into a reverse, the clan of Robinson failed to scoot past the Braves and both teams remain locked for the two-three notches.

Stallings claims that his outfit has a good chance to come through. He points out that the Phillies battle with his club and the Robins in the windup, whereas after his charges get through entertaining the Morans in Braves Field they will go it with the McGraws, and these series should be soft. Hence, perhaps enough ground will be made up here to allow the Braves to squeeze in ahead of the Phillies.

Gowdy damaged his right hand yesterday and may be out of the fray a day or two. But luckily, the injury was not a severe one, and "Hennery" banks upon doing all the work in Pittsburgh, though he may be forced to leave the big mitt duty today to Bert Whaling.

English High Boy Shines.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 21.—Nutter, a recruit from English High, Boston, played rapid football on end for Lehigh and Coach Kendy is confident the boy is going to remain a regular. Boland, Tomlinson, Hazeltine and Bigelow also made good impressions.

Tufts Squad Scrimmages.

The Tufts squad had a stiff workout on the oval and showed sterling form, considering the earliness of the season. The squad was divided into two teams for the first time and the scrimmage that followed suited the coaches.

"THE RABBITS' COLUMN" By Walter J. Maranville HORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

CINCINNATI, Sept. 21.—I do not want my Boston friends to think that the Braves have given up the 1915 pennant fight as a hopeless task. Far be it from us to do that. We're in the scramble to the finish, and people who think the Phillies have the flag cinched are badly mistaken, to my way of thinking.

REMEMBER, Philadelphia's last seven games are to be played in Boston and Brooklyn, four with us and three with the Dodgers. This is a hard task for any team, especially when it is considered that both teams are also in the fight for the pennant. A lot of things can happen in these two series, and the Phillies need more than their present advantage to be sure of going across the wire a winner.

* * *

ANOTHER point to be taken into consideration is this: While the Phillies are battling the Dodgers we will be up against a comparatively easy team in the Giants, who are now cavorting in the lowest possible position in the National League. If our chances are good at that time, I believe Philadelphia is doomed to bitter disappointment.

IF you read between the following lines you will notice that Pat Moran is not as sure of the pennant as some may think:

"I'll not pick the Phillies to win the pennant until it is a mathematical impossibility for us to beat us," said Pat recently: "What is more, I won't stand nor any of my players talking pennant while I'm around. I know some of our boys feel sure we are going to win, but I won't put a jinx on our team by claiming the flag."

"Why won't you talk about the pennant?" Moran was asked by a Western interviewer.

"I'll tell you why. It is not only bad judgment, but it is poor taste as well. My men know they have a great chance if they keep plugging and work for every game, but way should I let them become too confident? Overconfidence is the one thing we must fight against now, and it would be poor sense to encourage that."

FRED CLARKE of the Pirates is a great admirer of Arthur Nehf, the Braves' young pitcher. Unlike some of the would-be wiseacres, the Pittsburgh manager does not think that Nehf is a "flash in a pan." "Nehf looks like a coming pitcher," said Clarke. "When I saw him in action he seemed to have lots of 'stuff.' However, you cannot expect him to burn up the league right away. He probably will be an in-and-outer for a while, until he gains some experience and learns to use his 'stuff' to the best advantage. Mamaux was the same when he broke in. He would pitch a good game or two and then go bad for a turn or more, but he had the ability and finally showed consistently. Nehf ought to do the same thing."

* * *

COMING from a man of Clarke's position this statement should not be overlooked. Fred is one of the great men of baseball, and one who knows a live wire when he sees him. And Clarke is not alone in his opinion of Nehf either. Many others think the same. Any man who can show what Nehf has shown since he donned a Braves' uniform certainly must have the goods.

Burkett Sells His Worcester Holdings

WORCESTER, Sept. 21.—Jesse Burkett has taken $500 in cash for his holdings in the Worcester (New England League) club and stepped down and out. John J. O'Donnell, who did the buying, is confident he will get out with a profit, but Burkett thinks strongly that he has acquired a "white elephant."

Bills owed for management are not mentioned in the reorganization plan. Burkett claims he received only $200 of the $3,000 his contract called for.

CUTLER TOO GOOD FOR ED. GESTMAN

It looked like a small crowd at Braves Field last night, so tremendous is the seating capacity of the grandstand, but Promoter Tuohey announced today that his new exponent, open-air wrestling, is off to a good start and that he will keep it going. The crowd is placed around 2,000.

Charley Cutler worked in clean-cut fashion and won the main bout in straight falls over Edmund Gestman. Cutler clearly outclassed his bulky opponent.

Gestman did his best against Cutler, but never had a chance. Edmund was flopped the first time in 32 minutes and 15 seconds.

Karl Lemis, the Bohemian, threw Tom Ersak of Holland in a one-fall match. Ivan Michailoff proved far too strenuous an opponent for Komorak, the Bolgar, and the set-to was called off before its completion. Ivan rained one quick fall and had another on the way.

Between the bouts and falls a band rendered latest airs, with "demonstrations" from a different musical publishing houses shouting them through megaphones. In the turnout were fully 200 members of the fair sex.

Coffey Knocks Out Other Chap Twice

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 21.—"Sailor" Driscoll of Brooklyn tried hard to prove himself a game guy in his match with Coffey, but pulled an awful flivver. Taking the count in the first round, Driscoll was hooted soundly, he condescended to buck the buzz saw again.

Driscoll might have done his best, but the 1,500 "sports" in attendance are still laughing at his performance. Coffey worked as if he is a topliner. In the prelims "Billy" Cosmer and "Young" Diaz and Eddie Ketcher of Michigan and Fred Ronel of Fall River boxed to draws.

'Kid' Williams to Box Here.

BOXING RESULTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Willie Ashey, the local bantamweight, met George Nash, former amateur champion, at the Olympic A. C. tonight in a boxing battle of ten rounds won easily. Ashey and Nash drew on the count of nine in the fourth round.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—"Italian Joe" Gans out-boxed and out-slugged Paul Dixon for ten rounds at the Mutual A. C.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Marty Cross, brother of Jack Cross, knocked out "Battling" Levene in the third round at the Olympic A. C. Marty carried a 5-pound handicap and landed it. Both are lightweights.

GLOUCESTER, Sept. 21.—Al Delmont of Boston and Johnny Noonan of Dorchester went ten rounds to a draw at the Lyric A. C. tonight. Pete Bailey, Stanley Ketchel, Jack Dillon and Eddie Finn, all 135 pounders, and Eddie Finn (welter) and Jack Sheldon, one of Gotham's best middles, in eight rounds.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21.—"Buck" Crouse of Lancaster, Pa., champion of "Baltz" Grande of Philadelphia in their six-round bout at the Olympia A. C. tonight.

It was all Crouse after the second frame.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—Charlie Mack of Boston defeated Willie Hoenker of New York in ten rounding bout at the Empire A. C. tonight. Mack had a straight left with piston-like accuracy, which Hoenker was unable to evade. Hoenker made a rally in the last round and the boys were slugging when the final gong sounded.

Shrubb Goes On Job.

Only eleven candidates for the Harvard cross-country team reported to Coach Al Shrubb for the first practice run of the season. Shrubb took the squad at a fast clip over a three-mile course around the outside of Soldiers Field. The runners reporting are Merriam, Hutchins, King, Catteron, Hoyos, Alexis, Morahead, Fuller, Twitchell, captain of the team, Heffenger, Bancroft and Davison.

Footlight Flashes

THERE will be but one practice session at Harvard today. Head Coach Haughton made this announcement at the conclusion of yesterday's work. Now that the scrimmage work has started, Haughton figures it is too much to have his men working both morning and afternoon.

THE showing made by the varsity candidates was very encouraging. The men all flashed that they are in fine condition, even at this early date, and went at their task with mid-season vim and fight. Although it was the first set-to, the players displayed a tendency to mix things.

TOMMY RICHARDS, manager of last year's football team, paid a visit to Soldiers Field yesterday. Richards has just returned from his home in Spokane, Wash., arriving in Boston yesterday morning. He will begin his studies at Harvard Medical School next week, therefore does not expect to be seen on Soldiers Field very much this Fall.

"BOB" FOWLER, the old-time Marathon runner, and one of the best ever connected with the long-distance running game, has been appointed trainer of the Harvard freshman eleven. Fowler was all but signed up to accompany Charley Brickley to Johns Hopkins in the capacity of trainer, but the Baltimore college felt that it was not in a position to pay the clever trainer the salary he asked.

IT is rumored around the Locker Building that the first secret practice will be held Thursday. It is expected that Haughton will pursue the same plans regarding the secret work he did last season and that from Thursday until the close of the season the practice will all be held behind closed doors.

"DICK" Harte, Laurie Curtis and G. C. Clover have reported for practice. As they have been playing tennis at the intercollegiates, all are in good shape. Harte weighs in at 175, which is five pounds more than he ever balanced before.

BOB HORWEEN and Wilmot Whitney did some excellent punting this morning. Horween looks like a real "find." He is a strapping, big fellow, gets lots of distance on every "boot." Not only is Whitney an exceptionally fine punter, but he is one of the best men on the squad throwing forward passes. Much of his prowess in this department is due to his experience as a pitcher.

IT IS practically assured that Leo Leary will not be a member of the Harvard coaching squad this Fall. Leary formerly coached the ends, at which he displayed a great deal of ability, turning out some of the best ends ever seen at Harvard ever had. "Gil" Brown, the former Andover and Harvard end, has been assigned to Leary's position, and will have Frank O'Brien, another Crimson varsity end, as an assistant.

"BILLY" MURRAY, the former Andover boy, who starred on the 1915 football and baseball teams, is one of the most popular men on the varsity squad. He is one of the quietest and most unassuming chaps in college, besides a brilliant all-around athlete.

YALE BACK HOME; HAS FAST DRILL

YALE'S FIRST AT-HOME LINEUP.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 21.—Frank Hinkey, Yale's chief gridiron coach, observed the opening of practice on the home gridiron by shaking up the first eleven. Nearly half the second eleven, as played last week at Madison, was promoted to the varsity.

"Jim" Wray held forth at centre and showed excellent form. Hermann Von Holt, a former guard, was switched to right tackle, while Sheldon played the other.

Behind the line Hinkey continued his experiment of using Lowry, recently of the third team, at quarter. Mal Scovil was in the backfield along with Captain Wilson and Guernsey.

The practice was held on Yale Field, as the playing surface of the bowl is not in condition. The gates were closed the entire afternoon.

Relegated to the scrub, Harry Legore furnished the sensation of the practice with two long punts, but no scoring was done. Jim Sheldon, another varsity player, was on the second eleven as guard.

The candidates will not practice in the bowl until Thursday. The first game will be played against the University of Maine Saturday, five days before college opens.

Kiley Coaching Roxbury Team.

The St. Alphonsus Association of Roxbury has secured the services of Thomas Kiley, the former English High star, as coach. Kiley was also of the Orient A. A. of East Boston, basketball champions of the State, together with some of the best known high school players in Greater Boston, including Halliday and O'Meara, formerly of Commerce, and La Rochelle of Brighton will sport the buff and blue this Fall.

Harvard Stars Helping Out.

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 21.—The Middies have formed their varsity squad and it has gone into work under the direction of Head Coach Ingraham, helped out by Hardwick and Logan, two former Harvard stars. Hollenback of Penn and Lieutenant Smith, a former Annapolis hero. Miles and Ward of last year's winning eleven are among the early arrivals.

WHITNEY OVER WITH FIRST COUNTER

True to predictions Head Coach Haughton sent the Harvard varsity into scrimmage against Nob' Guild's second-team candidates yesterday afternoon on Soldiers Field.

Although this is the first time the 1916 Crimson regulars have been given a taste of real football, Haughton kept the men battling almost an hour, and before the practice was over every player on both squads, with the exceptions of J. A. Gilman and "Dumpy" Watson, both of whom are slightly under the weather, was given a chance to show his worth.

Shortly after 5 o'clock the varsity was lined up in the centre of the field against Team A of the second squad and sent into action with the ball in its possession. Captain Eddie Mahan was chosen to make the first rush of the season, a plunge through right guard, and the Crimson leader tore through for six yards.

For the next few minutes the varsity was unable to do anything with the second team, but finally Mahan executed a fine forward pass to Al Weatherhead which netted thirty yards.

After the varsity made a few short gains through the line, the teams were ordered back to the centre of the field and the varsity made another attempt to cross the second team's goal line.

ROLLINS AROUND END.

Unable to gain through the line, Quarterback Boles sent Wingate Rollins around right end and the former Roxbury Latin boy clicked off a spicy thirty-yard run.

Again the varsity smashed at the second's line and finally Wilmer Whitney crashed through right guard and across the goal line for the first touchdown of the season.

When the teams were lined up again there were a number of changes in the personnel. Ellwood Enwright was given his first varsity assignment and his plunging easily featured the session.

After "Willie" Wilcox pulled a beautiful thirty-five-yard run around his own left end, a series of plunges by Enwright carried the ball across the line for the second score.

The first varsity eleven sent against the second team was composed of Coolidge and Soucy, ends; Parsons and Bigelow, tackles; Cowan and Duncan, guards; Wright, centre; Bowe and Wilcox, quarters, and Enwright, McKissock and Mahan, backs. Haughton's second choices for scrimmage work were Weatherhead and L. Curtis, ends; Barry and Sawtelle, tackles; Middendorf and Snow, guards; H. S. Middendorf, centre; Wilcox, quarter, and Whitney, Thurber and Rollins, backs.

All the remaining candidates were used in action before the close of the practice, while Guild did not overlook a man on his squad, sending every man into the game at once and several as many as three times.

COACHES WELL PLEASED.

Considering that yesterday's scrimmage was the first of the season the general play was very good. The line was fairly ragged, putting a lot of force in its "jump" and hitting its opponents low. Of courses, there was not the start to the chaos that will be conspicuous later, but, at that, the linemen worked fairly well together and displayed enough combination play to cause a lot of favorable comment to be heard on the side lines.

Captain Mahan showed some of his old form in the way he tore around the ends after getting hold of the ball.

Although Wilcox started off at quarter, he returned to the scrimmage as a half, and it was while at this position that he stepped around and for the longest run of the day.

The line-plunging of Tom Enwright was first-class

BRITISH HAVE 3 MILLION READY FOR FRONT

Over 3,000,000 more soldiers are ready to go to the front for the allies, according to the Rev. Dr. William C. Minifie, British army chaplain, who is visiting in Boston.

He will soon return to England. Most of his time in this city has been spent in the camps at Aldershot, Crowborough, Falmouth, Harwich, Dover Court and Luton.

"What has upset England more than anything else is the coming of Zeppelins," said the chaplain. "It's coldblooded murder and nothing else. You don't get the particulars in the newspapers. I know myself fifty women and children were killed in one of these recent raids over London.

"It is an awful sight to behold women and children stretched out dead before you, the victims of these raids. If they would drop their bombs on fortresses or military stations, you would say this is part of the action of warfare.

"It will take a long time to wipe out this stain of German cruelty from English minds. Every one is confident. There is no pessimism.

"I have been through the camps, adding services and talking with hundreds of officers who have been to the front. It takes a good deal to wake up England. You can twist the lion's tail slightly, but when you give it a jerk, as these Zeppelin raids have done, expect something to happen in the near future.

"I cannot believe the Germans approve of this sort of warfare, dropping bombs over homes of little children.

"One of the saddest sights came before me in Flanders. Where destruction was all around. Hundreds of homes were in ruins. In disgust I fought woman with fourteen children. Upon asking her how many were her own, she replied four. Then she told me after the fight she went out and picked up the rest of the children and was trying to keep food and shelter for them.

"My wife is aiding in the work, going through the homes of the widows and orphans. Many interesting things are happening in the trenches. I have not been on the firing line as yet. I have seen the effects of it. When I return I intend to go closer to the trenches. But my duties have been largely to cheer the men on.

"I do not hold the conventional religious service for them. With me I carry a small gramophone with records of religious tunes. These I use at first. Then I give the men some stories about great men and heroes of the different wars. There's nothing dry about what I say. I am no parson. Then I quote in a casual way some passages of Scripture and make my selections point to something which is about to take place.

"Then they go to the trenches. They are a brave lot of men. They fear nothing, not even these Zeppelin raids.

"If you want to get any one to enlist in England, just tell him a Zeppelin crept stealthily over a quiet hamlet and let fall some bombs upon sleeping women and children and killed them all.

"That's enough to bring about enlistment.

"Never was England so wide awake as at present."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor

Stocks opened irregular both in New York and in Boston, with motor issues the strongest group in the former. As usual most of the activity there was in industrials which are directly or indirectly concerned in supplying war munitions. The big market began active and N. Y. Air Brake and Willys-Overland opened at highest record prices. Maxwell was strong, but Studebaker was off at the start. Best Sugar made a gain and was prominent in early trading. This was also true of Goodrich, Westinghouse and Central Leather. Railroads did not show strength as a class and were quiet.

There was not much business in coppers. They have not responded in the degree expected to a renewal of metal buying by foreigners. More domestic buying is needed apparently. Producers think it is due. Colorado Fuel and Iron, Northern Ore advanced but quickly receded. Most of the selling during the first half hour was for profit. Trading was not overbullish on the whole. When that matter is successfully arranged it is believed that there will be another speculative movement by the public. Outside interest in the market has increased this week.

SOLD AT HIGHEST PRICES.

During the first half hour a number of issues sold at high record prices. Studebaker top that line at 140 against 139¾ at 10:15. Maxwell was up 4, at 220. The list had become stronger on the whole, but activity was not well distributed.

Among gains at 10:15 in New York were Best Sugar ⅝, Car & Foundry ⅜, Inspiration ¼, Lehigh Valley ½, Atlantic Gulf ⅛, Central Leather ⅛, Crucible ⅛, Maxwell ⅛, Goodrich ⅛, N. Y. Air Brake ½, Mexican Petroleum ⅛, Republic Steel ⅛, Westinghouse ⅛, Willys-Overland ⅛. Losses were limited to ⅛ at 218, Anaconda ⅛, American Smelting ⅛, Atchison ⅛, Northern Pacific ⅛, Southern Pacific ⅛.

Declines included American Can ⅛, U. S. Steel ¼, Colorado Fuel ⅛, Great Northern Ore ⅛, U. S. Rubber ⅛, Rock Island ⅛, Reading ⅛ and Baltimore & Ohio ⅛. Price movements were comparatively narrow in the first fifteen minutes. During that period the most speculative interest was shown in war stocks.

MORE BREADTH TO TRADING.

Early trading in Boston had more breadth than has been usual of late. But at 10:15 most issues had declined. Losses included Calumet & Arizona ¾, Copper Range ¼, Granby ⅛, Greene-Cananea ⅛, Osceola ⅛, American Zinc ⅛, United Fruit ½, Shoe Machinery ⅛ and Ventura Oil ⅛. Among gains were American Woolen pf. ¼, Butte & Superior ⅛ and U. S. Smelting pf. ⅛. Granby was off 2 at first hour Granby had recovered and was up half a point. United Fruit had made the same advance.

In London spot copper was up 17s 6d. Futures 1l and electrolytic was unchanged. Lead was up 2s 6d. Spelter was off £1 10s.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

Now that the final series between the Red Sox and the Tigers has been concluded the motor industry will return to the details of its every-day life, nothing like which has caused such a general upheaval with the local motor industry than have these games with the Tigers, the big men of the trade hesitating at no opportunity to witness the struggles between the two teams.

The success of the Narragansett Speedway is assured by the experiences there on Saturday afternoon. The races were run at a higher average speed per mile than in any last heretofore held in New England, and it was done without the slightest accident to men or machines.

* * *

The racing surface proved all that the owners claimed for it, and it will not be surprising if another big event is held there before the snow flies. As a result of the showing on Saturday, Narragansett Park has a right to be classed among the leading motor racing circuits of America, and will unquestionably be awarded a position in the racing fixtures of next year.

* * *

Everyone is now looking forward to the 250-mile race at Sheepshead Bay, October 16. In this race, of course, Resta's averaged over 105 miles per hour, and those who saw his work, and who have inspected the new speed amphitheatre, are firmly convinced that in the race next week all previous long distance records will be fractured. Quite a delegation of Bostonians are going to the New York affair.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE. OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

New Rates for Transporting Milk---And the Consumer, as Usual, Seems Likely to Get the Worst of It

THE Boston & Maine has announced a purpose to increase its charges for transporting milk from some sections without the State to Boston. It will reduce the charges in some sections of the State. The maximum increase, it declares, will be one-half a cent a quart from any section. This maximum increase does not apply to every section and not at all from points within the State.

Now the big milk contractors intimate that they propose to use this announced increase by the railroad as the basis for further increasing the price of milk to the consumer, and THEIR proposed increase is to be four or five times the proposed increase by the railroad.

Governor Walsh promptly meets this suggestion from the contractors by the declaration that the State must at once provide some means of getting milk from the farmer to the consumer, which will not result, as in past years, in a constant rising price to the consumers and a stationary price to the farmers. In his inaugural message last year Governor Walsh pointed out to the State the extraordinary fact that the increase in the price of milk, which those who drink it are obliged to pay, has not gone to the farmers who produce it. He urged the Legislature to take some action to find a remedy for this strange condition. But the last Legislature, under the control of the standpat Republican organization, rejected the Governor's proposal.

Governor Walsh rightly appreciates the importance of this milk question to the people of Massachusetts. Milk is the most perfect of all known foods and ought to be the cheapest. The State could readily extend its functions to the distribution of milk and thus do justice both to the farmer and to the consumer. It is a great deal better to supply sufficient, nourishing and healthful milk than to supply hospitals, asylums and jails, the ultimate destination of so many of those who suffer from poor food and under-nourishment. This would be an ounce of prevention worth a pound of cure in the hospitals and other public institutions.

The people should watch their representatives closely next year to see how they vote upon the Governor's recommendation on the milk question when the next Legislature assembles. No doubt the standpat Republican organization will be opposed to any remedial legislation on this question, but if the Republican representatives know that they are being watched their organization cannot control them on this question. You who have children, especially, should follow the efforts of Governor Walsh to meet and solve this serious milk question in Massachusetts and uphold his hand if you approve of what he suggests as a remedy.

The announced increased charges for transporting milk by the railroad ought also to be scrutinized. It is noticeable that when a railroad alleges an attempt to equalize charges it nearly always tries to equalize them upward and not downward. The lower rates are marked up, never the higher rates marked down.

As much as we may want to help the Boston & Maine in its struggle to get upon its feet, we cannot sacrifice to its benefit a prime necessary of life.

Mrs. Atherton Answers Mr. Taft

Declares ex-President's Views on Suffrage Is Unwieldy, That He Fears Women's Power and That He and Men Like Him Are Afraid to See Women the Vote

By Ruth I. Byers

GERTRUDE ATHERTON

FEMININE logic has put former President Taft before the bar of woman's suffrage. He has been tried and found wanting.

Gertrude Atherton, well-known American novelist, has taken up the gauntlet Mr. Taft threw at the feet of the American women when he published an article giving his views on "Votes for Women."

Few women have a saner, clearer grasp of the true condition of affairs in this country than Mrs. Atherton.

"'American women should vote—but not yet.'" Mrs. Atherton smiled as she quoted the former President's own words. "That's the everlasting masculinity of a sex too often loath to give in, even when it sees the approach of the inevitable. To Mr. Taft's confident, patronizing admission, I would reply—'Eventually—WHY NOT NOW?'

Ultra Conservative

"Mr. Taft crystallized before the question of woman's suffrage had grown to be a vital factor in national life. His opinions are unwieldy. He is ultra conservative and it is hard for him to adjust himself to new, changed conditions.

"Men like Mr. Taft are afraid of what women will do with the vote. Their assured power, their large interests and their government are now working together for their good, and if they were quite frank their whole attitude toward suffrage could best be expressed to all womenkind by a big NO TRESPASSING sign of masculine monopoly.

"Just imagine a man who has had every advantage this country can give to one of its citizens who can vote, making such a statement as this:

"'On the whole, it is fair to say that the immediate enfranchisement of women will increase the proportion of the hysterical element of the electorate to such a degree that it will be injurious to public welfare.'

Idiotic Enthusiasm

"So suffrage is organized emotionalism, is it? I saw another phase of the so-called 'hysterical element' at the Chicago Convention when it nominated Taft. Of course, this is only my opinion, but honestly I never saw such idiotic enthusiasm run wild in any human gathering. Men made public fools of themselves in a way that no emotion on earth would arouse in women.

"I have watched men at the polls and seen them wait ng for election returns. I have seen them swayed in huge mass meetings—the acme of condensed emotionalism. Every political campaign is based largely on dramatic and emotional appeals. Taft knows it, only when he is running for office.

"Good for Our Souls"

"Something bigger than hysterics is now making women put their lives into work for their communities. Women are learning their lessons of civic welfare. Yet there is a certain type of man who will persist in seeing only the caricatured lady of his fancy, perched high on a chair shrieking with raised skirts at a flying mouse."

Suddenly Mrs. Atherton leaned forward eagerly in her chair. "Let's forget Mr. Taft and his worthy opinions just for a moment," she said. "Let's talk secrets. You and I really need the vote. Every other consideration aside, it's good for our souls. This is an age of the individual. Women will grow broader, their humanity will be wider, their justice deeper and truer and their home life more effective as they develop through greater contact with the world.

"What utter nonsense to say to us 'Wait!' Why not begin this great good which we all need now—here in Massachusetts and New York this Fall! Taft says we should not have the ballot until more of us are ready for its wise use.

"Were men worthy of the ballot in England in the '30s when they murdered and destroyed cities in their mad determination to vote? Who dares say that the same evolution of the voter which England has witnessed will not be duplicated with women? The only difference probably will be that women will not be so long about it as the men have been. Woman's intuition may be ridiculed, but it gets there just the same. The day will soon come when men wake up to the fact that women really have, even now, vast potential powers as voters.

Not Radicals by Nature

"We women have been the conservors of the race since time began. We are the ones who have pinched and saved and made 'ends meet.' We are not radicals by nature. We are conservative. And when we vote, we will vote the conservative, not the radical, ticket.

"I do not expect real understanding from men of Mr. Taft's persuasion. Our hopes lie with the new, the coming generation. America needs its feminine vote. Mr. Taft is afraid; that's all. He needs some one to take him gently by the hand and lead him to the bugaboo his fears have conjured up. When he find then that 'it won't bite.'"

Letters from American Readers

"YANKEE PEDLERS"

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—England has stopped our shipment of cotton; should we stop our shipment of arms?

In answer I say no. The stand I take to further my contention is this: Americans, or to be more explicit, citizens of the United States have been dubbed for over a century as "Yankee Pedlers," therefore we are looked upon as a commercialized nation, in other words, a nation that would sell itself for gold.

We have been so busy for the past century selling ourselves for gold that now at the facing of the present crisis I ask any fair-minded citizen, is the United States in a position to defy England and Germany alike, saying: There are our rights, defy them if you dare?

We have been so busy manufacturing marketable articles that we have neglected to build a merchant marine and an adequate navy to protect it and then like a cr[illegible] of scandal mongers set up th[illegible] of England's t[illegible]
